By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has chosen former State Department official George W. Ball, a strong advocate of a negotiated Vietnam war settlement, to succeed Arthur Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations.

The sudden, surprise choice of Ball, 58, to succeed the retiring Goldberg was viewed in the capital as fresh evidence that Johnson had decided to make a determined effort during his last nine months in office to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war.

Has Been Critical
Ball has made his criticisms of U.S. policy known particularly since resigning as undersecretary of state in October 1966.

telephone in Mont Tremblant, near Montreal, Canada, where he is attending a conference of an independent group concerned with Atlantic community problems, Ball said.

Effective in June
Johnson announced Thursday at a hastily called news conference that Goldberg, 59, had resigned and would be replaced by Ball. The President said the change would probably become effective in early June after Goldberg handles "certain matters now under way" at the United Nations.

Goldberg will in fact handle the U.S. argument for U.N. acceptance of a treaty proposed by this country, the Soviet Union and Britain to outlaw the spread of nuclear weapons. Goldberg indicated openly almost six months ago that he did not consider his U.N. position as a career. Johnson called him from the Supreme Court in mid-1965 to become ambassador to the world organization and recently he has privately expressed interest in returning to the practice of law.

Disappointment because President Johnson left him out of Washington's current Vietnam peace efforts might have caused Arthur J. Goldberg's resignation. See story on page 5.

At a New York news conference following the President's announcement, Goldberg said he had worked in the cause of Vietnam peace during his 33 months as U.N. ambassador. He added:

that I can best further these objectives in private life," he said. While acknowledging there had been Vietnam policy differences within the administration, he said that had not motivated his decision to resign.

Ball and Goldberg both have been known in the government as Vietnam policy critics, although Goldberg's views have been less sharply defined in public since he has not been outside government service. He has worked for negotiations at the United Nations.

States was so deeply involved in the war it should seek a moderate way out, neither withdrawing in abandonment nor trying to force victory through escalation.

A burly 200-pounder with wavy silver hair, Ball is a native of Des Moines, Iowa, and a 1933 graduate of Northwestern University law school.

Most of his career has been spent in international law, although he served with the government in the Lend Lease Administration and Foreign Economic Administration during World War II. At the war's end he was a director of the U.S. strategic bombing survey based in London.

Saigon Searches For Arms

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese police today ordered all boats and vehicles entering Saigon searched for arms and explosives after thwarting a Viet Cong attempt to smuggle guns into the capital on a river junk.

As fear of another attack on the capital mounted, American infantrymen combing the provinces around Saigon fought a series of small battles Thursday. Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese positions in the A Shau Valley, in the northern part of the country, again and again.

There were new reports from South Vietnam's national police that the Viet Cong were bringing arms into the capital to prepare for another "terrorist" campaign against the city similar to the Tet offensive.

Police said they found 10 Soviet AK47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock. They did not say if any arrests were made.

Premier Nguyen Van Loc suggested Thursday that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese might be planning another attack on Saigon to improve their military position before peace negotiations. South Vietnamese army units in the provinces around Saigon have been on 100 per cent alert all week in anticipation of a new enemy attack.

In the continuing small-scale fighting around the capital, 10 U.S. soldiers were killed and 82 wounded in actions 12 to 38 miles from Saigon.

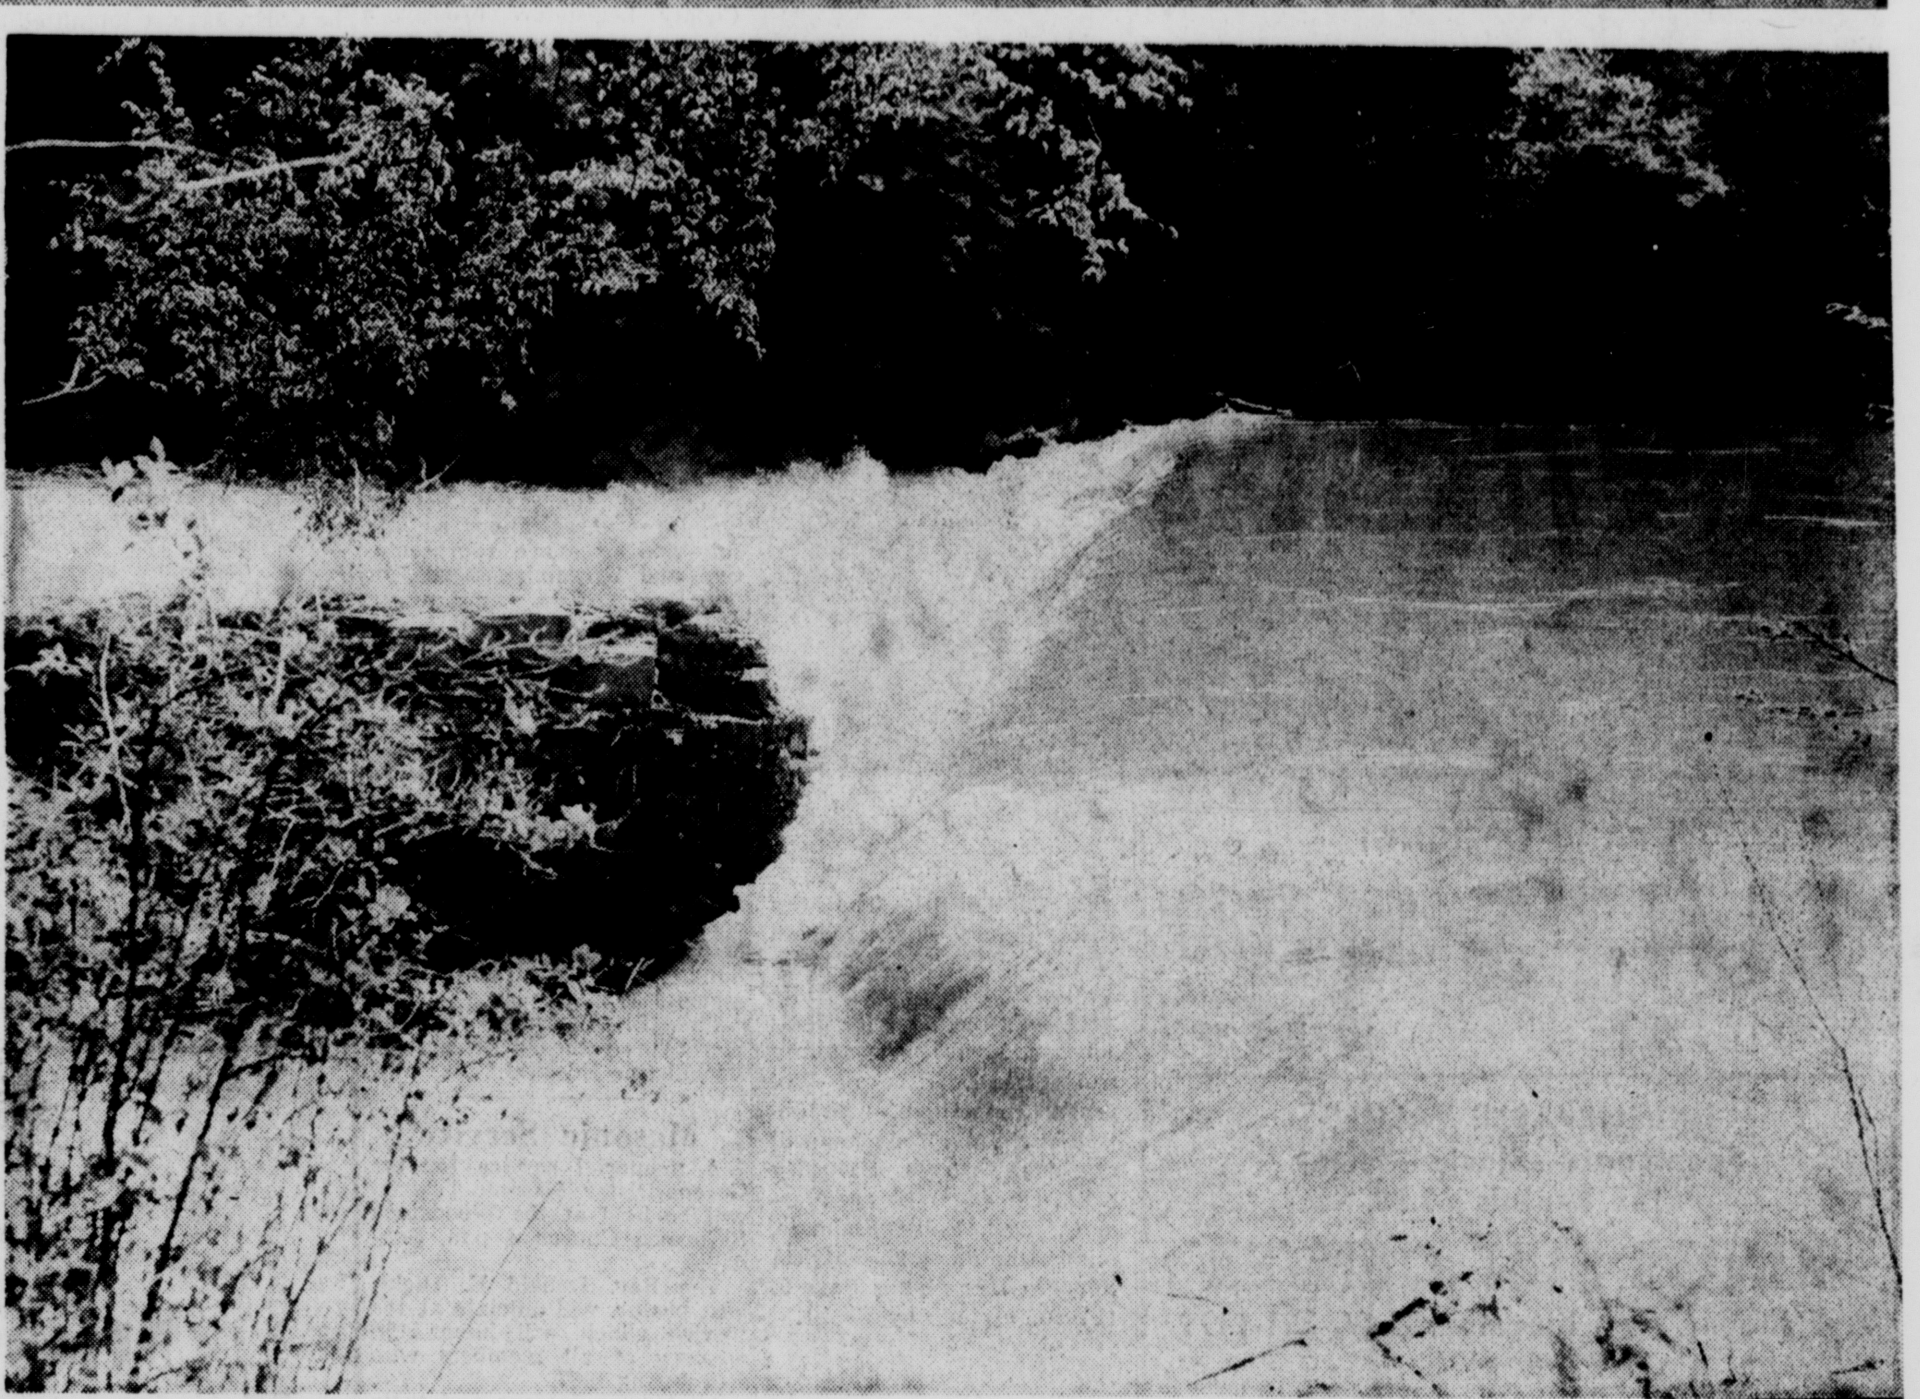

Only 26 enemy were reported dead in the battles, and 18 of them were killed by U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers that attacked a bunker complex 25 miles northwest of the capital.

The jets were called in to help units of the 25th Infantry Division. The infantry reported the air attacks destroyed 99 enemy bunkers and damaged another 25.

While the South Vietnamese were fearful of a new attack on Saigon, U.S. intelligence officers exhibited greatest concern about the North Vietnamese concentrations in the A Shau Valley, which they said threatened the Hue area.

LAOTIAN TALKS — The State Department said Thursday that U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan conferred with the North Vietnamese representative to Laos, but no agreement was reached for preliminary peace talks. Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Sullivan, Ambassador to Laos, met North Vietnamese Charge d'Affaires Nguyen Chan at Chan's official residence in Vientiane, the Laotian capital. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

No City Dem Action on Endorsement

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The Democratic City Committee followed the county's lead last night and adjourned without endorsing a presidential candidate. The vote for adjournment was 21-17.

The meeting was held at American Legion Post 150 and presided over by chairman Thomas R. Lyle. It was expected that a motion would be made, and carried, to endorse Senator Robert F. Kennedy for president. The motion, despite several opportunities never came from the floor.

Instead, Vernon Murphy made a motion to adjourn which takes precedence over all other motions. His motion was quickly seconded by Paul Mills, another committeeman.

There was no question of the legality of last night's adjournment. The leader of the Kennedy forces, Harley Chairman James T. McCordle told The Freeman today, "The opportunity was certainly there. It was case of someone falling asleep at the switch."

McCordle said the meeting was "very fair." He said he hoped for a special meeting next week on Kennedy's candidacy. Lyle was non-committal this morning on the possibility of a special meeting.

According to McCordle, last night's 21-17 vote for adjournment cannot be considered a defeat for Kennedy. McCordle estimated that if the Kennedy vote had come to the floor it would have carried, 22-16.

"Obviously," he said, "quite a few Kennedy supporters voted for adjournment." McCordle said it was "simply a case of cold feet." "I can't really blame them," he said. "Some of those committeemen are candidates and they have to run for election."

Several committeemen have taken the stand that it is too early to endorse a presidential candidate.

J. Austin MacDonald is perhaps, typical. MacDonald voted against the adjournment, but said he would have also voted against any motion to endorse a presidential candidate.

McCordle took strong exception to this position. "You must have leadership in the party," he said. "The committeemen are the leaders. They should take a stand."

McCordle was asked if his support of Kennedy was actually opposition to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, now campaigning for the Democratic senatorial nomination against Eugene Nickerson, Nassau County executive.

Said McCordle, "We are actually pro-organization. Joe Resnick is anti-organization. By making statements, time and time again, that he would not support Kennedy even if he were nominated, Resnick is actually working against the party. It's a basic rule of politics — you support the candidate. If Resnick wants to oppose Kennedy before the nomination, that's all right. But if he opposes him after he is nominated, if Kennedy is nominated that can only lead to chaos."

Resnick has been supported in three of the 28 District's five counties, Dutchess, Ulster and Schoharie. Kennedy has been endorsed in Greene and Columbia.

The main business on the slate last night was the official nomination of aldermanic candidates. Candidates include John Heitzman (First Ward), Joseph Conlin (Third), Mrs. Florence S. Ludlow (Fourth), Joseph Saccamano (Fifth), Thomas Hines (Sixth), Michael Perry (Seventh), Emilio Primo Jr. (Eighth), Frederick Harder Sr. (Ninth), Clifford Sinsabaugh (Tenth), Edward Norton (Eleventh), Peter Mancuso (Twelfth) and James Madden (Thirteenth). The candidate for the Second Ward is expected to be named this weekend.

Columbia University Reverses Field

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University bowed today to a militant student protest that had disrupted campus life for three days and said it would halt construction of a controversial gymnasium until further notice.

The reversal came in an announcement by university Vice President David B. Truman before a wildly cheering crowd of 150 white and Negro onlookers gathered on the steps of Low Memorial Library.

Truman also said the entire university would be closed until Monday to permit further talks between the administration, faculty and Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The concession seemed to drain much of the tension that had built up on the Ivy League campus but student demonstrators continued their sit-in at five campus buildings.

They apparently were hoping that the university also would yield to their second principal demand, amnesty for all demonstrators.

President Grayson Kirk announced Thursday that no amnesty would be granted. He said such a concession would "destroy the whole fabric of the university community" by making a sham of the college rules.

An hour before Truman spoke, a double file of about 20 plainclothes police, some carrying nightsticks, pushed past a dozen faculty members stationed before the library door.

One woman was pushed to the ground and stepped on and a male French instructor was clubbed on the head. He was treated for a scalp cut at a hospital and released.

Later they added the demand for amnesty and agreed that the IDA issue could be negotiated if the university yielded on the other two demands.

Although the demonstrators numbered only several hundred out of the total enrollment of 27,500 they forced the university to cancel night classes Wednesday and Thursday and barred 2,500 of Columbia's 10,000 students from classes Thursday.

In a separate protest, a group of 10 to 20 Negroes, members of the Student Organization for Black Unity at Long Island University's Brooklyn Center, barricaded themselves in the acting provost's office for nine hours Thursday.

The group was protesting the proposed sale of the center to City University. It also demanded more Negro teachers, a "black curriculum" and other measures. Most of the center's 7,000 students had no role in the protest.

The Columbia demonstrators first seized control Tuesday of Hamilton Hall, the university's main classroom building and one of about 70 on the upper Manhattan campus.

To President's Office
Early Wednesday they moved into President Kirk's office in Low Library, ransacking the premises. Others occupied Avery Hall and Fayerweather Hall. Early today 60 students dashed to the Mathematics

Building and quickly barricaded themselves inside.

Henry Coleman, acting dean of Columbia College, announced Thursday night that he and President Kirk had asked Lindsay for "police help."

As word reached the barricaded demonstrators, some prepared for an expected police attempt to dislodge them by bolting windows and unrolling fire hoses.

Some faculty members stationed themselves at the doors to the occupied buildings, saying they would try to block police from entering.

There were no reports of arrests by police after they entered the library and when Vice President Truman came out he said the faculty had persuaded him to postpone further police action.

Meanwhile at Boston University, where some 300 Negro students barricaded themselves in the administration building for nearly 12 hours Wednesday, the school moved quickly to meet one demand—more Negro enrollments.

Arland F. Christ-Janer, the university's president, said Thursday 16 Negroes previously refused admission will be invited to take summer courses to qualify for entrance in the fall.

In Worcester, Holy Cross College students donated $5,900 for a Martin Luther King Jr. memorial scholarship fund. The scholarships will be for Negro students.

'Pussyfooting' With Rioters Irks 2 Dem Senate Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic leaders have protested because federal troops and police were ordered not to shoot arsonists and looters during the racial violence in Washington earlier this month.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the majority whip and No. 2 man in the Democratic leadership, also vowed in a Senate speech Thursday to call for the censure or expulsion of any senator who advocates "bending the knee" to demands from leaders of the Poor People Campaign.

Pressure on Congress
Dr. Ralph Abernathy, successor to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, plans to bring thousands of poor people to Washington next month with the aim of pressuring Congress to enact welfare legislation through non-violent demonstrations.

"When that bunch of marchers comes here, they can just burn the whole place down and we can just move the capital to some place where they enforce the law," Long said.

Sen. Robert F. Byrd, D-W.Va., third-ranking Senate Democrat, accused Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of pussyfooting with rioters—a reference to Clark's view that shoot-to-kill orders are not the way to handle slum violence.

President Johnson has expressed a similar view, saying: "We can rebuild property. We can replace the loss of money.

But a life taken can never be restored."

Tired of Pussyfooting
"I'm tired of this pussyfooting by the attorney general of the United States or by anyone else, and the American people are tired of it," Byrd said.

Clark also came in for attack by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Texas, who told a St. Louis audience today the attorney general should be replaced and charged he is undermining law enforcement.

"The present attorney general is more concerned with the civil rights of law violators than he is with the civil rights of law-abiding citizens," Tower said.

him Clark should be made head of the Peace Corps, the anti-poverty program or the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Wage Likely Target
Long told the Senate that while Abernathy has not specified the demands on Congress which the Poor People's Campaign will make, a guaranteed annual wage probably will be sought. There also has been talk that the government should assure every family enough income for a basic standard of living.

The Louisiana Democrat said if the march leaders "think they are going to push us into bankruptcy this country to pay the worthless people to be more worthless, they are making a mistake."

The sudden, surprise choice of Ball, 58, to succeed the retiring Goldberg was viewed in the capital as fresh evidence that Johnson had decided to make a determined effort during his last nine months in office to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war.

Has Been Critical

Ball has made his criticisms of U.S. policy known particularly since resigning as undersecretary of state in October 1966. Thus his willingness to return to government surprised Washington circles as much as did Johnson's decision to ask him back.

Reached Thursday evening by telephone in Mont Tremblant, near Montreal, Canada, where he is attending a conference of an independent group concerned with Atlantic community problems, Ball said:

"The President has removed himself from the political arena so he can make decisions which would be much more difficult if he were a political candidate."

"Therefore the period that remains could be a very fruitful period."

Effective in June

Johnson announced Thursday at a hastily called news conference that Goldberg, 59, had resigned and would be replaced by Ball. The President said the change would probably become effective in early June after Goldberg handles "certain matters now under way" at the United Nations.

At a New York news conference following the President's announcement, Goldberg said he had worked in the cause of Vietnam peace during his 33 months as U.N. ambassador. He added:

"I have resigned in the belief that I can best further these objectives in private life," he said. While acknowledging there had been Vietnam policy differences within the administration, he said that had not motivated his decision to resign.

Ball, like Goldberg, entered the John F. Kennedy administration in January 1961. Goldberg was President Kennedy's first secretary of labor.

Ball and Goldberg both have been known in the government as Vietnam policy critics, although Goldberg's views have been less sharply defined in public since he has not been outside government service. He has worked for negotiations at the United Nations.

Specified Disapproval

Early this month Ball published a book on foreign policy in which he specified his disapproval of large-scale U.S. military action in Vietnam from the outset. But he said he also took the position that once the United States was so deeply involved in the war it should seek a moderate way out, neither withdrawing in abandonment nor trying to force victory through escalation.

A burly 200-pounder with wavy silver hair, Ball is a native of Des Moines, Iowa, and a 1933 graduate of Northwestern University law school.

Most of his career has been spent in international law, although he served with the government in the Lend Lease Administration and Foreign Economic Administration during World War II. At the war's end he was a director of the U.S. strategic bombing survey based in London.

Afterwards Ball joined in founding a Washington law firm and spent 15 years in private practice until President Kennedy appointed him undersecretary of state for economic affairs. At the end of 1961 he was promoted to the No. 2 position in the State Department.

At the adjoining Freeman and Library booths at the exposition, the library's new recordack reader as well as historic papers are available for perusal. In order to preserve the historical significance of the Kingston area, The Freeman and the Lions Club jointly financed the microfilming of 28 local newspapers published between 1820 and 1915. The cost of the operation has been set at $4,000. It took 41 days and 480 hours to complete the operation. After the Expo, the newspapers will be taken to the Ulster County Historical Society in Marletown. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Ray's Views on the Ghetto Plan

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has termed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's Urban Development Corporation for the rebuilding of the state's ghetto areas "a good idea but somewhat of a dream."

Garraghan received a letter from Rockefeller Wednesday asking the mayor for suggestions on ways to implement the new $6 billion program in Kingston.

Close Cooperation Essential
The governor wrote the mayor, "It is essential that there be close cooperation between the corporation and the city of Kingston in carrying out needed projects and that a strong bond of mutual concern be established right from the start if the corporation is to succeed."

Rockefeller goes on to write that he is now working to develop an "outstanding board of directors" and hopes to announce their appointments in the near future.

"In the meantime," the governor writes, "it would be most helpful to me to have an indication from you of those projects in your community in which the corporation's participation would be desirable and of your general priorities in the fields of housing, industrial and civic facilities."

Garraghan, after writing that the corporation has some good ideas but is somewhat of a dream, says that the state and the nation are faced with a revolution in thinking and that old ideas do not work.

Garraghan writes that the state can only help with the programs needed which must be financed by the federal government.

'Migration Must Stop'
Garraghan points out that the governor's brochure says there are 14,000 new families moving into New York City every month. Garraghan says that this migration must be stopped.

Says the mayor, "The unemployed must be induced or enforced to leave the ghetto areas. This means the development of new cities (of 30,000 population) in the open lands of our country where they can be trained so they and their children can be part of America."

Evidently, Garraghan is in that slums must be eliminated, rebuild the cities. The mayor agreement with Rockefeller in However, the governor wants to build new cities.

Martorana On The CSEA Issue

Withdrawal of a resolution seeking to recognize a bargaining agent for county employees at the April 18 meeting of the County Legislature brought a sharp statement this week from Joseph Martorana, R-9th District.

Blames Chairman, Leader
Martorana, author of the resolution declared that county employees are adversely affected by what he termed "the unscrupulous shenanigans of certain politicians who weigh votes rather than the rights of man."

He claimed that the recognition proposal was scuttled by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savage, R-New Paltz, Gardner and Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, R-2nd District. The resolution would have recognized the Civil Service Employees Association as the sole and exclusive representative and bargaining agent for county employees provided the CSEA had submitted proof in the form of signed membership cards.

Chairman Savage claims that the CSEA has not submitted the required proof, a clear majority of employees, despite a counter claim by the CSEA that it had. The CSEA, according to Martorana, indicated it had submitted proof and was prepared to file a petition for certification with the State Public Employment Relations Board in Albany if action was not taken by the County Legislature.

Defending his fight in the April 18 GOP caucus, Martorana said, "I was only doing what my job as committee chairman calls for—to work with and to inspire my committee, to search for facts and to deliver worthy recommendations." Martorana is chairman of the Salary Study Committee. The game of playing both ends against the middle is certainly not in full compliance with the letter and spirit of the Taylor Law," he said.

The purpose of the Taylor Law, according to Martorana is to promote harmonious and cooperative collective bargaining relations between government and public employees.

398 of 600 Signed
Robert Brown, president of CSEA Ulster County Unit said the unit has signed cards of 398 of about 600 county employees and this information has been filed with the stated that nearly 800 employees are involved.

Ray's Views on the Ghetto Plan

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has termed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's Urban Development Corporation for the rebuilding of the state's ghetto areas "a good idea but somewhat of a dream."

Garraghan received a letter from Rockefeller Wednesday asking the mayor for suggestions on ways to implement the new $6 billion program in Kingston.

Close Cooperation Essential
The governor wrote the mayor, "It is essential that there be close cooperation between the corporation and the city of Kingston in carrying out needed projects and that a strong bond of mutual concern be established right from the start if the corporation is to succeed."

Rockefeller goes on to write that he is now working to develop an "outstanding board of directors" and hopes to announce their appointments in the near future.

"In the meantime," the governor writes, "it would be most helpful to me to have an indication from you of those projects in your community in which the corporation's participation would be desirable and of your general priorities in the fields of housing, industrial and civic facilities."

Garraghan, after writing that the corporation has some good ideas but is somewhat of a dream, says that the state and the nation are faced with a revolution in thinking and that old ideas do not work.

Garraghan writes that the state can only help with the programs needed which must be financed by the federal government.

'Migration Must Stop'

Garraghan points out that the governor's brochure says there are 14,000 new families moving into New York City every month. Garraghan says that this migration must be stopped.

Says the mayor, "The unemployed must be induced or enforced to leave the ghetto areas. This means the development of new cities (of 30,000 population) in the open lands of our country where they can be trained so they and their children can be part of America."

Accuse New York Man Of Bearsville Robbery

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

A 30-year-old New York City man was arrested at the Trailways Bus Terminal in Kingston last night and charged with armed robbery and assault of a 77-year-old employee of Albert Grossman of Bearsville.

Grossman is the manager of folk singer Bobby Dylan.

The robbery was reportedly committed at the Grossman estate in Bearsville.

Picked Up by BCI

He was picked up by Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers William Wiedemann and Roger Gardner.

The Grossman employee was identified as Everett Miller, a gardener.

According to state police reports, Miller claimed that he met Almodovar in New York City some time ago. The gardener allegedly told Almodovar that he could get a job working with Grossman if he came up to the Woodstock hamlet and applied for it.

Almodovar reportedly came up to the Grossman estate at about 7 p. m. last night but was told by Miller that there were no jobs available.

Reports state that Almodovar picked up a knife from a kitchen table and relieved Miller of $22 in cash, a wristwatch, raincoat and radio.

He reportedly then assaulted Miller with his fists, tied him up with strips of bed sheeting, and left.

It could not be ascertained whether Almodovar used a vehicle in his escape.

Sometime later, a call was received by Town of Woodstock Constable Gerald Brainard informing him of the robbery.

Brainard contacted the state police. At 11:45 p. m., the BCI agents picked up Almodovar at the Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue bus terminal.

Remanded to Jail

Charged with robbery in the first degree, Almodovar was taken before Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan who fixed bail at $2,000 and adjourned a hearing until May 1, giving the accused man time to obtain a lawyer.

In lieu of the bail amount, the New York City suspect was remanded to the Ulster County jail.

Resnick Critical Of the Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., accuses the Navy of refusing to cooperate or participate in a hearing Resnick has called "to seek fresh information" in the demotion of two naval officers.

Resnick, of Ellenville, announced last week that he would hold a three-day hearing in the case of Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter, former commander of the destroyer Vance, and Capt. Richard G. Alexander.

Arnheiter was replaced as skipper because of a conspiracy by three junior officers, Resnick contends, while Alexander was demoted for speaking out in defense of Arnheiter. Resnick said he had asked Navy Secretary Paul R. Ignatius to make available for the hearing official files on the case. Ignatius refused, the congressman said, because the House Armed Services Committee already had reviewed the case. Resnick charged that the secretary's refusal "once again underscores the arrogance that the Navy has displayed in this matter right from the start."

$3,936,879 Proposed OCS Budget

The Board of Education for the Ontario Central Schools has proposed a budget for the 1968-69 school year of $3,936,879, an increase of $484,963 over the current year.

The budget was explained by the school board at a public hearing this week at the Ontario High School. The budget will be voted on at the annual district meeting on May 8.

$327,749 Extra by Taxes

Although the proposed budget increases $484,963 over the current year, the amount to be raised through local taxes increases only $327,749 because of increased state aid.

Members of the school board told those attending the public hearing that in the past Ontario has maintained a high level of public support and achieved a fine educational program while holding a true tax rate at the median for the area. The board members said the budget proposed for 1968-69 is projected to maintain the same relationship.

Dr. Harold R. Snyder, superintendent of the Ontario Central Schools, told the public hearing:

"In the face of mounting and conflicting demands for economy, increased services, and increased costs, the Board of Education and staff have conscientiously attempted to construct a budget that will meet the needs of the district without being extravagant."

Dr. Snyder outlined some of the strengths of the Ontario school system that the proposed budget would attempt to maintain:

The achievement level of Ontario pupils which consistently ranks higher than other comparable schools.

The school system's ability to retain and recruit experienced, well-prepared teachers.

A good ratio of supporting services which allows teachers to devote full-time to teaching and to help make their teaching more effective.

Dr. Snyder also said the proposed budget would attempt to strengthen some weaknesses in the Ontario school system. Because of increased costs, he explained, the Ontario schools have not been able to take full advantage of modern technological tools to assist in the educational program. The proposed budget allows for increased use of television and some increases in other audio-visual equipment.

Dr. Snyder said the curriculum is constantly developing, and he stated that the proposed budget allows for curriculum workshops and summer study programs so that changes in curriculum can be made most effectively.

Hours to Change

The superintendent noted that the transportation percentage of past budgets had been slightly high because of the district's size. He said that the hours of the high school day would be changed to correspond to Ulster County high schools and allow the double-running of some buses. This will make more money available for the instructional program of the budget, he said. At the same time, the after-school program can be expanded and the new timetable will make it possible for Ontario students to attend either morning or afternoon vocational programs held by the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

The largest increase in the proposed budget are for salaries of professional employees. It was pointed out at the public hearing that the Taylor Law mandates that all public employees have the right to organize and negotiate collectively with their employers. The Ontario school board has negotiated new contracts with the Ontario Teachers Association and with the Ontario Non-Teaching Employees Association. Members of the school board noted at the public hearing that a substantial portion of the increase in the school budget was due to the cost of inflation, student enrollment in the county which rose 3.7 per cent in the last year. They also said that in the proposed budget, the Ontario schools will experience a 4.5 per cent growth in enrollment in the coming year and that was reflected last year. They also said that in the proposed budget,

The budget was explained by the school board at a public hearing this week at the Onteora High School. The budget will be voted on at the annual district meeting on May 8.

$327,749 Extra by Taxes

Although the proposed budget increases $484,963 over the current year, the amount to be raised through local taxes increases only $327,749 because of increased state aid.

Members of the school board told those attending the public hearing that in the past Onteora has maintained a high level of public support and achieved a fine educational program while holding a true tax rate at the median for the area. The board members said the budget proposed for 1968-69 is projected to maintain the same relationship.

Dr. Harold R. Snyder, superintendent of the Onteora Central Schools, told the public hearing: "In the face of mounting and conflicting demands for economic services, and increased costs, the Board of Education and staff have conscientiously attempted to construct a budget that will meet the needs of the district without being extravagant."

Dr. Snyder outlined some of the strengths of the Onteora school system that the proposed budget would attempt to maintain:

The achievement level of Onteora pupils which consistently ranks higher than other comparable schools.

The school system's ability to retain and recruit experienced, well-prepared teachers.

A good ratio of supporting services which allows teachers to devote full-time to teaching and to help make their teaching more effective.

Dr. Snyder also said the proposed budget would attempt to strengthen some weaknesses in the Onteora school system. Because of increased costs, he explained, the Onteora schools have not been able to take full advantage of modern technological tools to assist in the educational program. The proposed budget allows for increased use of television and some increases in other audiovisual equipment. Dr. Snyder said the curriculum is constantly developing, and he stated that the proposed budget allows for curriculum workshops and summer study programs so that changes in curriculum can be made most effectively.

Hours to Change

The superintendent noted that of past budgets had been slightly high because of the district's size. He said that the hours of the high school day would be changed to correspond to Ulster County high schools and allow the double-running of some buses. This will make more money available for the instructional program of the budget, he said. At the same time, the after-school program can be expanded and the new timetable will make it possible for Onteora students to attend either morning or afternoon vocational programs held by the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

The largest increase in the proposed budget are for salaries of professional employees. It was pointed out at the public hearing that the Taylor Law mandates that all public employees have the right to organize and negotiate collectively with their employers. The Onteora school board has negotiated new contracts with the Onteora Teachers Association and with the Onteora Nonomy Teaching Employees Association. Members of the school board noted at the public hearing that a substantial portion of the increase in the school budget was due to the cost of inflation, which rose 3.7 per cent in the last year. They also said that in the proposed budget, the Onteora schools will experience a 4.5 per cent growth in student enrollment in the coming year and that was reflected in the proposed budget.

ULSTER ACADEMY Offers Monthly Budget Plan

To budget and insure tuition costs after initial deposit, as of May 1, you would make:

4 monthly payments of . . . . $135.71

36 monthly payments of . . . . 112.80

5 monthly payments of . . . . 109.46

That would be for four years—for an entering freshman. For a sophomore it would be 24 months at $112.80. For an eighth grade student, 48 months at $112.80.

Set Your Clocks Ahead

Daylight saving time, which is designed to give more time for outdoor recreation, will go into effect Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. Almost the entire nation will have the extra hour of daylight until October 26 when standard time again will be in effect.

For those who keep forgetting, clocks are to be pushed ahead one hour at 2 a. m. on Sunday.

Although widely adopted throughout the country, daylight saving is still a source of controversy. It is popular with golfers, fishermen and other sports enthusiasts as well as workers in stores, offices and factories, but no so with farmers.

Moving the clocks ahead had a rough time at the start, but has gained in popularity over the years. The national uniformity in the shift to fast time will lessen the frustration experienced by the average citizen off on vacation or business trip that takes one through several states. Congress has enacted a law directing all states—excepting those in which legislatures voted exemption—to observe daylight saving time for the six-month period starting the last Sunday in April and ending the last Sunday in October.

Spring ahead, fall back is an adage used as a reminder for setting clocks at the beginning and conclusion of the daylight saving time period.

Tell It to the White House

David Lawrence in his column on this page discusses the warning by Chairman Martin of the Federal Reserve Board that the country is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931." He points out that most analysts seem to feel that the declaration was made with the specific purpose of getting action by Congress on the pending bill to increase taxes.

The Federal Reserve Board first should have directed its grave concern over our dire financial complications to the White House and the free-spending policies of the Johnson administration, which actually are the reasons why we are in this economic bind. The FRB supposedly has its finger on the nation's financial pulse, so if it knows now that we are headed for fiscal doom, it must have seen the first signs a long time ago.

While the President is telling us we can have both gun and butter, the Federal Reserve Board knows a whole lot better, but it isn't telling what it knows when it should.

First Quarter Boom

The first quarter this year returned a record increase of $20 billion in the gross national product. A new mark in industrial production was set. Together, these gains confirmed the boom of the nation's economy.

They also raised fears that a booming economy will stimulate imports and further add to the deficit in the balance of payments. The situation calls for Americans to buy home products, to keep dollars at home. Only we are not naturally a self-disciplined people. We like our freedom of action.

The adjusted rate of growth of the gross national product on the basis of the first three months hit another record, $827.3 billion. Consumer spending accounted for some $16 billion of the quarter rise, reflecting high employment and disposable income.

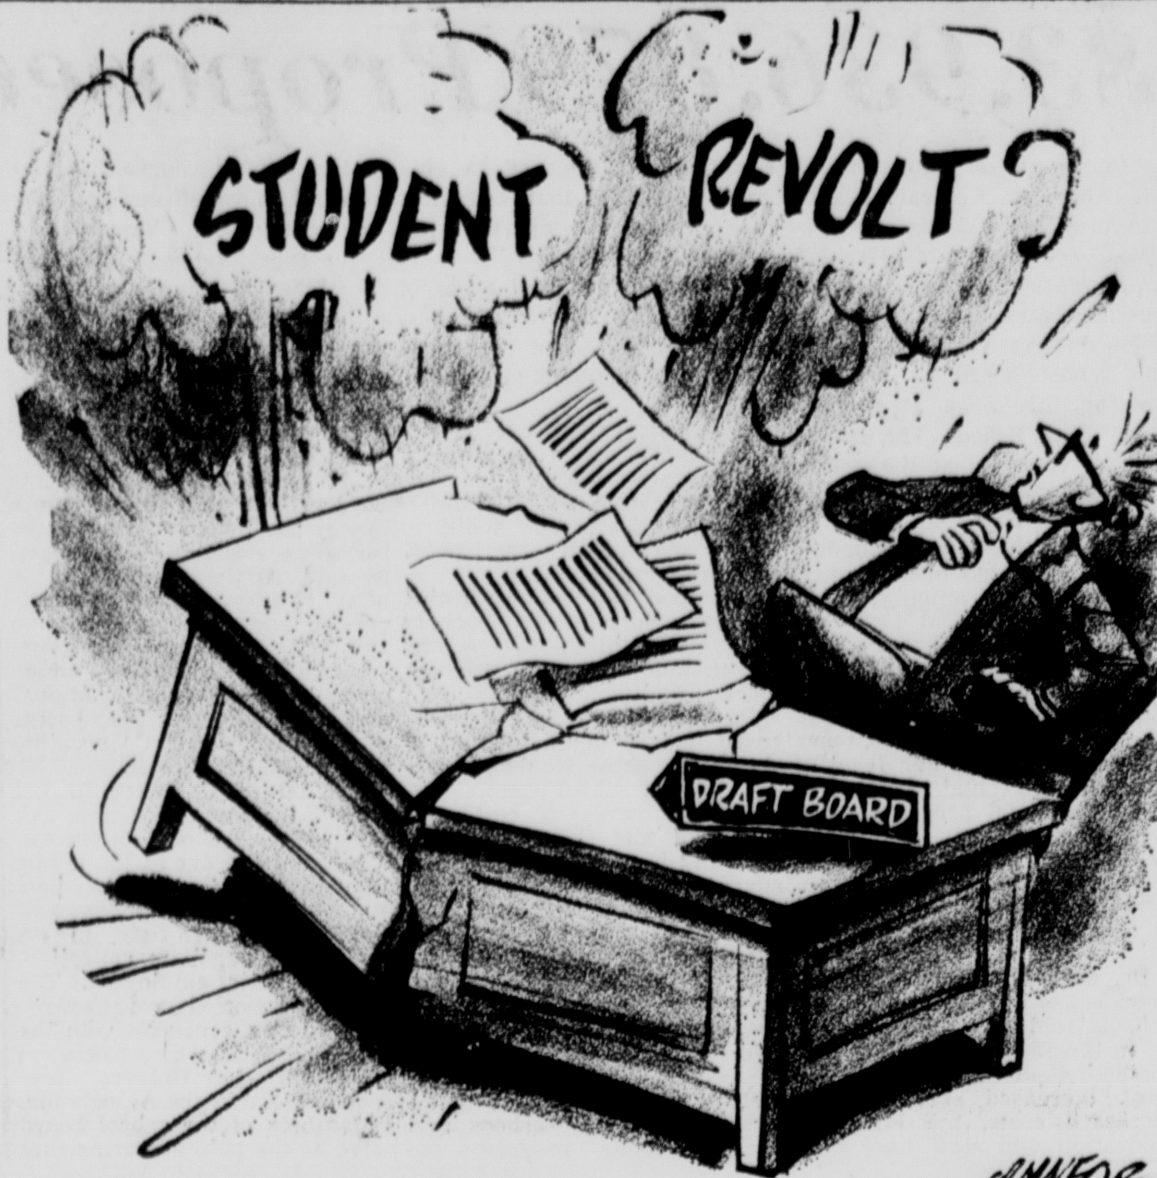

Of course, the economic growth pace will increase the Administration's pressure for higher taxes, and it should. If that is coupled with less government spending, the inflationary factor can be controlled.

New Ally May Save Elms

The Dutch elm disease that has been ravaging America's magnificent elms for nearly 40 years was an unwanted immigrant from Europe. Now another organism from across the Atlantic is being encouraged to take up residence in this country in hopes of saving the remaining trees from almost certain extinction.

Tiny European wasps, credited with checking the disease in Europe, are being bred by the millions in American laboratories, reports Organic Gardening magazine. The wasps lay eggs next to the larvae of the elm-bark beetle, which is responsible for spreading the fungus blight. Upon hatching, the wasp larvae feed on the beetle larvae and destroy them.

The wasps will be a welcome ally, not only to tree-owning individuals and communities who have been spending many thousands of dollars a year for the removal of infected elms and the chemical spraying of healthy ones, but to those who fear that the widespread use of pesticides may have consequences much more undesirable in the long run than the loss of the elms.

Stop the Bombing

David Lawrence Says

People Should Be Told About Economic Crisis

WASHINGTON — Businessmen, bankers, and the public generally have been much concerned over the declaration made about a week ago by William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the country is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931."

Some thought it an emotional statement, based upon the frustration that seems to confront government officials as to what to do next. Others felt it was opportune, as the situation had been difficult without preventive action. While the speech could have an adverse effect on public confidence in the value of the dollar in terms of gold, most of the analysts seem to feel that Chairman Martin made his declaration with a specific purpose in mind—to get some action by Congress on the pending bill to increase taxes.

The problem, however, is so intricate that the treatment of one factor by itself cannot necessarily prevent financial complications. The basic truth is that the administration has been reluctant to paint a picture of future trouble and has been content to exert pressure on Congress to do something about tax legislation. The answer that comes back from the House leaders is that budget-cutting must come first, and little has been done in that direction thus far.

Many of the experts who look at the crisis from an economic and financial point of view think that the United States cannot much longer postpone revaluation of gold and that a higher price is inevitable. The United States has been able to avoid such a decision by getting agreements with various countries to deal with the gold problem in a limited way. But it begins to be more and more apparent that the bold supply of the United States will eventually be drained away. Anticipation of such a contingency unquestionably prompted Mr. Martin's statement.

The fact is that the U.S. balance of payments deficit—the excess of dollars flowing out of the country over those taken in from abroad—is expected to be worse for the first quarter of 1968 than for any previous quarter, with possibly one or two exceptions.

Unfortunately, politics currently plays a vital part in decision-making, particularly since a national election is only six months away. The administration is hesitant to revalue the dollar for fear it might disrupt the present boom and lose votes at the polls next autumn. Members of Congress, on the other hand, feel that the budget has to be cut and that this would have a salutary effect on the whole situation. But, again, the administration is timid about any sharp reduction in social-welfare expenditures.

Many bankers are asking whether the administration would prefer to raise the price of gold after the crisis comes and serious consequences have occurred, instead of taking action ahead of time. There seems to be a growing number who think that some revaluation is bound to come.

Probably if budget-cutting as well as tax increases were a concerted action and part of a general policy of restraining inflation, there would be no loss of public confidence in the dollar. When nothing is being done, there is a risk that economic pressures will grow and crises around the world will arise.

Several months ago the tax increase was first proposed. While public opinion has not been favorable to such a measure, it probably would be more receptive if the administration told the people frankly that a crisis could ensue unless prompt action is taken.

There are many experts who believe that increasing the price of gold right away would not materially affect foreign-exchange rates and that unfavorable consequences might be avoided. The consensus, however, is that the government cannot allow the situation to drift much longer. A fundamental change in fiscal policy is not often made on the eve of a Presidential election. But 1968 may prove an exception because of economic dangers which are slowly being manifested in the centers of world trade, as the finger of blame is pointed at the United States for inaction on the dollar problem.

Confidence that Hanoi remains interested in the talks is based upon the conviction here that the North Vietnamese suffered heavy losses during and since the lunar new year offensive, especially in the siege of Khe Sanh, and may now be anxious to negotiate at least an end of the bombing of the north, which is limited to south of the 20th parallel.

At the same time, officials believe that the convoys of men and supplies coming down the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos and across the demilitarized zone represent an attempt by Hanoi to replenish its losses and improve its bargaining stance, in the event substantive negotiations develop.

Beyond this, however, official sources differ. Some hold that the buildup is aimed at another major offensive in the south, possibly in May, in which the communists will try again to achieve a "general uprising" and collapse of the Saigon regime.

Other believe the fresh supplies of men and material are being rushed in to bolster the morale of units decimated at the time of the new year offensive and by B-52 raids on the forces that planned to overrun the Marine bastion at Khe Sanh.

Another view is that Hanoi may be preparing to agree on reduced infiltration as the price for a complete bombing halt, and therefore want to have as many men in place in the south as possible before negotiations get under way.

Not all officials share these optimistic judgments about the enemy's plight on the ground in the south. And some believe that Hanoi accepted the president's initiative of March 31 because it felt that U.S. public opinion was ripe for a serious peace move.

The big question being asked here is wholly speculative: Will Hanoi reason that it can make a better deal with President Johnson's successor than it can with a man who has removed himself from politics in an effort to achieve an acceptable settlement of the war?

Officials say that while they can only guess at an answer, Mr. Johnson will not allow Hanoi to conduct a "fight and talk" policy with impunity. Despite Defense Sec. Clark Clifford's statements of a manpower ceiling for Vietnam, coupled with a gradual turnover of the major combat role to the South Vietnamese, the president will employ "what is necessary" to maintain the allied position, these officials emphasize.

They dispute a growing belief among many observers here that once the war has been substantially turned down by Washington, it will be politically difficult, if not impossible, to crank it up again to levels that would include renewed bombing attacks north of the 20th parallel and additional American troops beyond the presently contemplated ceiling.

These sources add that, contrary to some reports, Clifford has not grabbed the ball away from Sec. of State Dean Rusk. They insist that Rusk has been in full agreement with the reassessment of policy that produced the apparently de-escalatory course, and that he welcomes the prospect of negotiations as much as anyone in the administration.

One, by the National Security Council, ended deferments for many graduate students in universities and suspended deferments of workers in scarce skills. The other, by Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey, ordered drafting of oldest men first in the 19-25 age bracket.

Mrs. Vetter charted a sort of chain reaction that she said will make itself felt through the educational system all the way down to the kindergarten level.

First, graduate schools will be depleted of students, she said. Then undergraduate classes will suffer because many of them are taught by graduate students. In the next eight years only half the graduate students who would ordinarily earn doctor of philosophy degrees will do so, and the same will be true in the master's degree category.

"In the years ahead, the teachers shortage will increase all the way from kindergarten through the university; research efforts will lag, and some research will be abandoned," Mrs. Vetter asserted. "Our national technological superiority will be seriously endangered, and at the same time our military efficiency may suffer because the services will be required to mold a fighting force out of inductees who are both older and better educated than the army says is optimum."

Beginning this summer, Mrs. Vetter said, "college graduates and graduate students will bear the entire brunt of the draft" owing to two decisions made early this year.

Mrs. Vetter is executive secretary of the Scientific Manpower Commission, a panel representing 11 leading professional societies. The commission has been critical of Selective Service policies aimed at drafting fledgling scientists.

Drew Pearson Says Race Rumblings Stir South; Big Changes in Mississippi

Drew Pearson says: Race rumblings stir in the South; Mississippi has seen great racial changes since 1964; far-sighted project to train Negroes is stymied by Mississippi governor.

GREENVILLE, Miss. — What does the South, which has seen its share of race riots, sit-ins, and bombings, think of the racial trauma experienced by big Northern cities today?

I got the answer down here in the heart of the Black Belt, an area so named not because of the Negro population but because its soil is probably the blackest and richest in the United States. The population also justifies the name, for in the Delta the ratio is 60 per cent Negro in the countryside, 50 per cent in the cities.

Greenville, which has that ratio, is a prosperous farming community where cotton once was king and still is queen. The city nestles below the levee of the Mississippi River, which is higher than most of Greenville's buildings. The docks where steamboats and barges once loaded bales of cotton are idle now, for the river, in all its might and majesty, cut a new channel, leaving Greenville behind.

Aside from this geographic freak, however, the citizens of Greenville are not being left behind. Four years ago, in the summer of 1964, Greenville was the headquarters of the Delta ministry, a group of white Northern preachers who carried the civil rights gospel all over Mississippi. Partly as a result of that 1964 drive, Negroes have now won their civil rights. Large numbers are registered, and vote in state and national elections. But the economic security which they expected with political achievement has not arrived.

The agricultural revolution has come to Mississippi, but not the industrial revolution. Thousands of Negroes have been put out of work by the development of cotton-picking machinery, chemical weed killers, and acreage cutbacks. The big plantation owners get subsidy payments for these cutbacks (Sen. Jim Eastland gets $129,000 annually), but the Negro either goes north to Chicago and Detroit, or he swells the ranks of the untrained and the unemployed at home.

Hints of Violence

As a result, and especially since the death of Martin Luther King, there has been new restlessness among Mississippi Negroes.

Greenville's Chief of Police, W. C. Burnley, one of the best in the state, has warned the city council of trouble ahead. He reported that never before had his men been the subject of bottle-throwing. He asked for more men, more equipment, and pay for police overtime.

"This is the first time in my career of 22 years that I have seen so much animosity toward me and my men," Chief Burnley told the city council. "It's only a matter of time before a serious incident occurs."

Negro leader Charles Moore, President of the Herbert Lee Memorial Community Center, objected to increased arms, warned it would lead to bloodshed.

"I am not getting out there in the street between the kids and the police so they can shoot me in the back and say I was inciting a riot," Moore said.

The white leaders of Greenville are definitely concerned and definitely are doing something. They are not interested in gloating over race problems in the North and saying we told you so. They recognize that the race problem is a national one which basically calls for better Negro training.

Accordingly they have worked out a project to take over the barracks of the Greenville Air Force Base, now empty, and use them for training projects under the Graflex Division of General Precision.

Graflex has agreed. The federal government in Washington has put up $2,000,000 subject to matching funds. The Ford Foundation has put up $500,000 to help supply the matching funds. The only party which has not agreed is the State of Mississippi.

Officials Feel Agreement On Site Will Be Reached

By PETER LISAGOR

WASHINGTON, Apr. 24 —

Hanoi appears bent upon a "fight and talk" strategy in South Vietnam, but little else about North Vietnam's intentions, either on the battlefield or in peace talks, is clear to U.S. officials.

The prevailing judgement within the administration is that Hanoi will eventually agree to a six for preliminary contacts even as it continues to mount a sizable buildup of its forces in the south.

President Johnson is pictured as still favoring an Asian capital for the initial talks, although the United States has proposed four European countries as possible hosts, Italy, Belgium, Austria and Finland.

Confidence that Hanoi remains interested in the talks is based upon the conviction here that the North Vietnamese suffered heavy losses during and since the lunar new year offensive, especially in the siege of Khe Sanh, and may now be anxious to negotiate at least an end of the bombing of the north, which is limited to south of the 20th parallel.

Set Your Clocks Ahead

Daylight saving time, which is designed to give more time for outdoor recreation, will go into effect Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. Almost the entire nation will have the extra hour of daylight until October 26 when standard time again will be in effect.

For those who keep forgetting, clocks are to be pushed ahead one hour at 2 a. m. on Sunday.

Although widely adopted throughout the country, daylight saving is still a source of controversy. It is popular with golfers, fishermen and other sports enthusiasts as well as workers in stores, offices and factories, but no so with farmers.

Moving the clocks ahead had a rough time at the start, but has gained in popularity over the years. The national uniformity in the shift to fast time will lessen the frustration experienced by the average citizen off on vacation or business trip that takes one through several states. Congress has enacted a law directing all states—excepting those in which legislatures voted exemption—to observe daylight saving time for the six-month period starting the last Sunday in April and ending the last Sunday in October.

Spring ahead, fall back is an adage used as a reminder for setting clocks at the beginning and conclusion of the daylight saving time period.

Tell It to the White House

David Lawrence in his column on this page discusses the warning by Chairman Martin of the Federal Reserve Board that the country is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931." He points out that most analysts seem to feel that the declaration was made with the specific purpose of getting action by Congress on the pending bill to increase taxes.

The Federal Reserve Board first should have directed its grave concern over our dire financial complications to the White House and the free-spending policies of the Johnson administration, which actually are the reasons why we are in this economic bind. The FRB supposedly has its finger on the nation's financial pulse, so if it knows now that we are headed for fiscal doom, it must have seen the first signs a long time ago.

While the President is telling us we can have both gun and butter, the Federal Reserve Board knows a whole lot better, but it isn't telling what it knows when it should.

First Quarter Boom

The first quarter this year returned a record increase of $20 billion in the gross national product. A new mark in industrial production was set. Together, these gains confirmed the boom of the nation's economy.

They also raised fears that a booming economy will stimulate imports and further add to the deficit in the balance of payments. The situation calls for Americans to buy home products, to keep dollars at home. Only we are not naturally a self-disciplined people. We like our freedom of action.

The adjusted rate of growth of the gross national product on the basis of the first three months hit another record, $827.3 billion. Consumer spending accounted for some $16 billion of the quarter rise, reflecting high employment and disposable income.

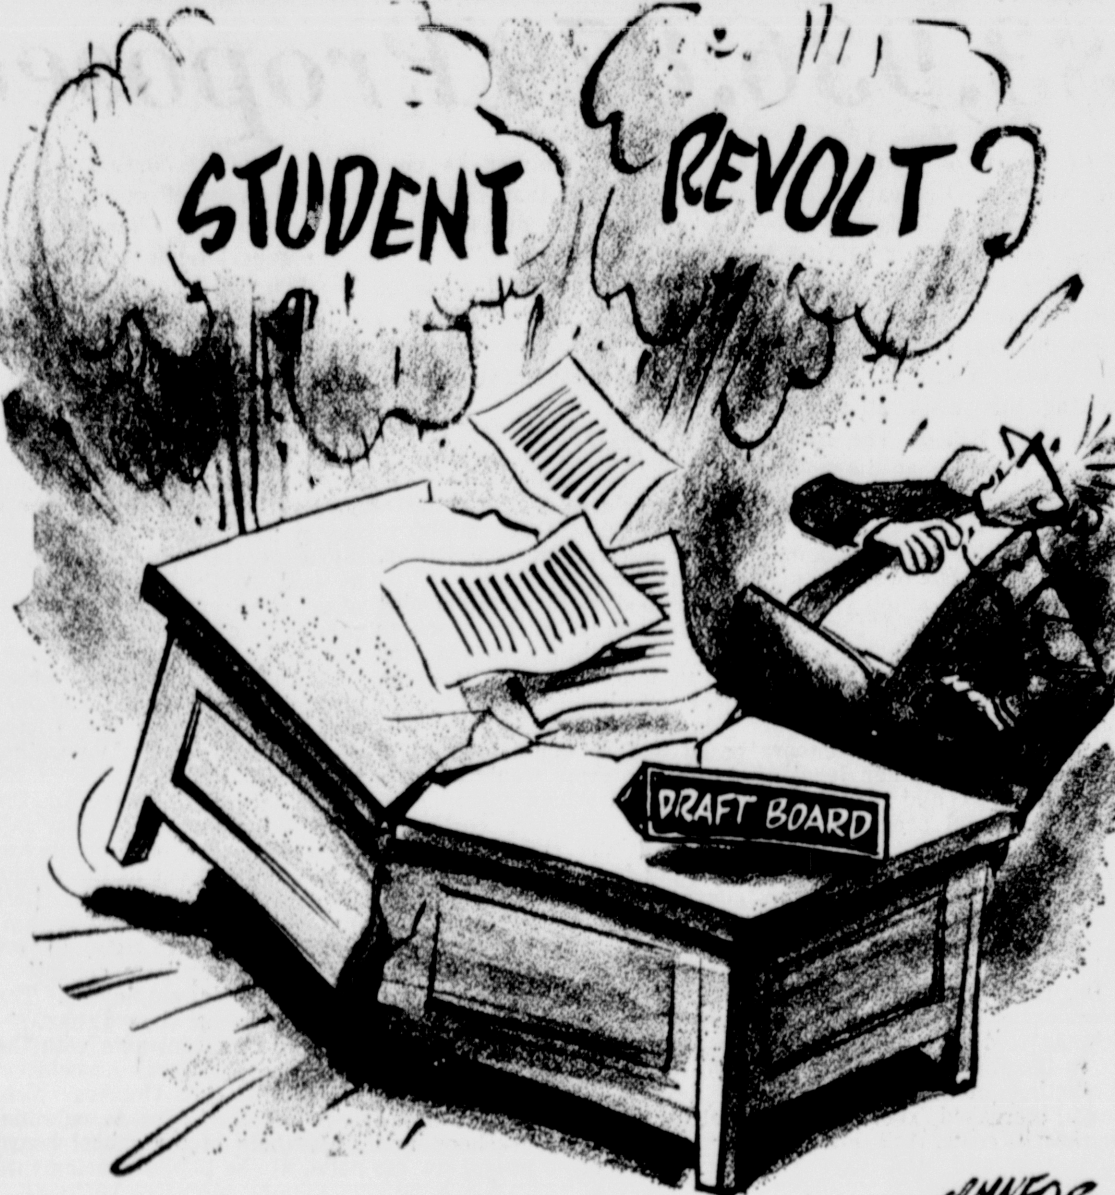

Of course, the economic growth pace will increase the Administration's pressure for higher taxes, and it should. If that is coupled with less government spending, the inflationary factor can be controlled.

New Ally May Save Elms

The Dutch elm disease that has been ravaging America's magnificent elms for nearly 40 years was an unwanted immigrant from Europe. Now another organism from across the Atlantic is being encouraged to take up residence in this country in hopes of saving the remaining trees from almost certain extinction.

Tiny European wasps, credited with checking the disease in Europe, are being bred by the millions in American laboratories, reports Organic Gardening magazine. The wasps lay eggs next to the larvae of the elm-bark beetle, which is responsible for spreading the fungus blight. Upon hatching, the wasp larvae feed on the beetle larvae and destroy them.

The wasps will be a welcome ally, not only to tree-owning individuals and communities who have been spending many thousands of dollars a year for the removal of infected elms and the chemical spraying of healthy ones, but to those who fear that the widespread use of pesticides may have consequences much more undesirable in the long run than the loss of the elms.

Stop the Bombing

David Lawrence Says People Should Be Told About Economic Crisis

WASHINGTON — Businessmen, bankers, and the public generally have been much concerned over the declaration made about a week ago by William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the country is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931."

Some thought it an emotional statement, based upon the frustration that seems to confront government officials as to what to do next. Others felt it was opportune, as the situation had been drifting without preventive action. While the speech could have an adverse effect on public confidence in the value of the dollar in terms of gold, most of the analysts seem to feel that Chairman Martin made his declaration with a specific purpose in mind—to get some action by Congress on the pending bill to increase taxes.

The problem, however, is so intricate that the treatment of one factor by itself cannot necessarily prevent financial complications. The basic truth is that the administration has been reluctant to paint a picture of future trouble and has been content to exert pressure on Congress to do something about tax legislation. The answer that comes back from the House leaders is that budget-cutting must come first, and little has been done in that direction thus far.

Many of the experts who look at the crisis from an economic and financial point of view think that the United States cannot much longer postpone revaluation of gold and that a higher price is inevitable. The United States has been able to avoid such a decision by getting agreements with various countries to deal with the gold problem in a limited way. But it begins to be more and more apparent that the bold supply of the United States will eventually be drained away. Anticipation of such a contingency unquestionably prompted Mr. Martin's statement.

The fact is that the U.S. Balance of payments deficit—the excess of dollars flowing out of the country over those taken in from abroad—is expected to be worse for the first quarter of 1968 than for any previous quarter, with possibly one or two exceptions.

Unfortunately, politics currently plays a vital part in decision-making, particularly since a national election is only six months away. The administration is hesitant to revalue the dollar for fear it might disrupt the present boom and lose votes at the polls next autumn. Members of Congress, on the other hand, feel that the budget has to be cut and that this would have a salutary effect on the whole situation. But, again, the administration is timid about any sharp reduction in social-welfare expenditures.

Many bankers are asking whether the administration would prefer to raise the price of gold after the crisis comes and serious consequences have occurred, instead of taking action ahead of time. There seems to be a growing number who think that some revaluation is bound to come.

Probably if budget-cutting as well as tax increases were a concerted action and part of a general policy of restraining inflation, there would be no loss of public confidence in the dollar. When nothing is being done, there is a risk that economic pressures will grow and crises around the world will arise.

Several months ago the tax increase was first proposed. While public opinion has not been favorable to such a measure, it probably would be more receptive if the administration told the people frankly that a crisis could ensue unless prompt action is taken.

There are many experts who believe that increasing the price of gold right away would not materially affect foreign-exchange rates and that unfavorable consequences might be avoided. The consensus, however, is that the government cannot allow the situation to drift much longer.

A fundamental change in fiscal policy is not often made on the eve of a Presidential election. But 1968 may prove an exception because of economic dangers which are slowly being manifested in the centers of world trade, as the finger of blame is pointed at the United States for inaction on the dollar problem.

When Viet Fighting Stops, 'Other War' Will Be Big Task

By RAY CROMLEY
VIENTIANE, Laos (NEA) —From here, one thing seems clear: We can win the war in South Vietnam.

But let us get clear what winning the war means.

To see things in perspective, we must go back to World War II against Japan and Germany. The shooting-bombing war that led to surrender was only the first stage.

The victory was won in the years after Japan and Germany surrendered. The United States then went all-out to build democracies where there had been totalitarianism. We made mistakes—but we did create working governments of, by and for the people. Now these two former enemies are bulwarks of democracy, stability and reason in this unsettled world.

We were not so wise in Germany after World War I. Some Germans argue our actions then, though well-intentioned, helped create the unsettled conditions that led to Hitler.

By World War II, we had learned the shooting war is only half the battle. We can leave chaos, hate and resentment—which can lead to a Hitler, a Mao or a Stalin. We can build a democracy, which can lead to a Japan or a West Germany of today.

Today, democratic Japan and Germany would not be easily taken by Communist China or Soviet Russia, despite Red military strength. Democratic South Korea, which we helped build, is likewise a bastion. When people have a part in their government, they will die for it.

Now there are many people who say that we have no business "imposing" democracy on South Vietnam. These opponents say that maybe the people don't want democracy, aren't capable of it or don't care.

This reporter notes that almost invariably people who talk in this vein are referring only to Asians, Africans or Latins, as though people of these continents are not capable of having a voice in their governments. For that's what democracy means—a voice in the government. It is any system in which the average man can have a meaningful say in the running of his country.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

April 26, 1958—Feeling that Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly cannot "In good conscience" represent the Kingston Board of Education at a hearing on city consolidated before New York State Commission of Education, the board decided to employ another attorney. Kelly had objected to the action which came about because of certain "public statements attributed to the Corporation Counsel."

April 26, 1948 — Police received reports from persons who said they saw a bright object the night sky west of the city.

Police were investigating the theft of $300 from the rectory of St. Joseph's Church. Plans were in progress for observing Americanism Day here May 1.

Drew Pearson Says Race Rumblings Stir South; Big Changes in Mississippi

Drew Pearson says: Race rumblings stir in the South; Mississippi has seen great racial changes since 1964; far-sighted project to train Negroes is stymied by Mississippi governor

GREENVILLE, Miss. — What does the South, which has seen its share of race riots, sit-ins, and bombings, think of the racial trauma experienced by big Northern cities today?

I got the answer down here in the heart of the Black Belt, an area so named not because of the Negro population but because its soil is probably the blackest and richest in the United States. The population also justifies the name, for in the Delta the ratio is 60 per cent Negro in the countryside, 50 per cent in the cities.

Greenville, which has that ratio, is a prosperous farming community where cotton once was king and still is queen. The city nestles below the levee of the Mississippi River, which is higher than most of Greenville's buildings. The docks where steamboats and barges once loaded bales of cotton are idle now, for the river, in all its might and majesty, cut a new channel, leaving Greenville behind.

Aside from this geographic freak, however, the citizens of Greenville are not being left behind. Four years ago, in the summer of 1964, Greenville was the headquarters of the Delta Ministry, a group of white Northern preachers who carried the civil rights gospel all over Mississippi. Partly as a result of that 1964 drive, Negroes have now won their civil rights. Large numbers are registered, and vote in state and national elections. But the economic security which they expected with political achievement has not arrived.

The agricultural revolution has come to Mississippi, but not the industrial revolution. Thousands of Negroes have been put out of work by the development of cotton-picking machinery, chemical weed killers, and acreage cut-backs. The big plantation owners get subsidy payments for these cutbacks (Sen. Jim Eastland gets $129,000 annually), but the Negro either goes north to Chicago and Detroit, or he swells the ranks of the untrained and the unemployed at home.

Hints of Violence
As a result, and especially since the death of Martin Luther King, there has been new restlessness among Mississippi Negroes.

Greenville's Chief of Police, W. C. Burnley, one of the best in the state, has warned the city council of trouble ahead. He reported that never before had his men been the subject of bottle-throwing. He asked for more men, more equipment, and pay for police overtime.

"This is the first time in my career of 22 years that I have seen so much animosity toward me and my men," Chief Burnley told the city council. "It's only a matter of time before a serious incident occurs."

Negro leader Charles Moore, President of the Herbert Lee Memorial Community Center, objected to increased arms, warned it would lead to bloodshed.

"I am not getting out there in the street between the kids and the police so they can shoot me in the back and say I was inciting a riot," Moore said.

The white leaders of Greenville are definitely concerned and definitely are doing something. They are not interested in gloating over race problems in the North and saying we told you so. They recognize that the race problem is a national one which basically calls for better Negro training.

Accordingly they have worked out a project to take over the barracks of the Greenville Air Force Base, now empty, and use them for training projects under the Graftex Division of General Precision.

Graftex has agreed. The federal government in Washington has put up $2,000,000 subject to matching funds. The Ford Foundation has put up $500,000 to help supply the matching funds. The only party which has not agreed is the State of Mississippi.

Governor Objects
Here, newly elected Gov. John Bell Williams has thrown in a monkey wrench. John Bell is the rabble-rousing racist who was demoted by the House of Representatives in Washington when he bolted the Democratic party for Goldwater in 1964. He came back to Mississippi to be elected governor in a race where two moderates gave him a real battle—Democrat William Winter in the primary and Republican Rubel Phillips in the final election.

Williams, now secure as governor, has refused to go along with the attempt of Greenville citizens to give more job training to Negroes. Williams' objections are threefold:

1. The fourteen-member biracial advisory board contains some civil rights activists, such as Fannie Lou Hamer who ran for Congress on the Freedom Democratic ticket, attempting to unseat Williams.

2. The Greenville plans calls for 25 Negro families to live in the barracks, which have been empty for six years. Gov. Williams claims this would be a "commune" and might lead to communism.

3. Williams wants safeguards written into the contract with Graftex whereby the project would not become a staging area for civil rights demonstrations.

Greenville businessmen, led by banker Ray Smith, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Gen. Albert Lake, a retired Army officer, are trying to overcome the Governor's objections. They are enthusiastic about the project, believe that economic stability through job training is key to better race relations. Meanwhile the Governor has the veto power.

Note: Some observers believe Gov. Williams' negative attitude toward the Greenville project is because that area did not vote for him in either the primary or the final election; also because the Greenville project was started in cooperation with his predecessor, Gov. Paul Johnson. Johnson was elected as a race-baiter, turned into moderate who tried to promote racial harmony. Williams also was elected as a race-baiter but shows no sign of being converted.

Officials Feel Agreement On Site Will Be Reached

By PETER LISAGOR
WASHINGTON, Apr. 24 —

Hanoi appears bent upon a "fight and talk" strategy in South Vietnam, but little else about North Vietnam's intentions, either on the battlefield or in peace talks, is clear to U.S. officials.

The prevailing judgement within the administration is that Hanoi will eventually agree to a site for preliminary contacts even as it continues to mount a sizable buildup of its forces in the south.

President Johnson is pictured as still favoring an Asian capital for the initial talks, although the United States has proposed four European countries as possible hosts, Italy, Belgium, Austria and Finland.

Confidence that Hanoi remains interested in the talks is based upon the conviction here that the North Vietnamese suffered heavy losses during and since the lunar new year offensive, especially in the siege of Khe Sanh, and may now be anxious to negotiate at least an end of the bombing of the north, which is limited to south of the 20th parallel.

At the same time, officials believe that the convoys of men and supplies coming down the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos and across the demilitarized zone represent an attempt by Hanoi to replenish its losses and improve its bargaining stance, in the event substantive negotiations develop.

Beyond this, however, official sources differ. Some hold that the buildup is aimed at another major offensive in the south, possibly in May, in which the communists will try again to achieve a "general uprising" and collapse of the Saigon regime.

Other believe the fresh supplies of men and material are being rushed in to bolster the morale of units decimated at the time of the new year offensive and by B-52 raids on the forces that planned to overrun the Marine bastion at Khe Sanh.

Another view is that Hanoi may be preparing to agree on reduced infiltration as the price for a complete bombing halt, and therefore want to have as many men in place in the south as possible before negotiations get under way.

Not all officials share these optimistic judgments about the enemy's plight on the ground in the south. And some believe that Hanoi accepted the president's initiative of March 31 because it felt that U.S. public opinion was ripe for a serious peace move.

The big question being asked here is wholly speculative: will Hanoi reason that it can make a better deal with President Johnson's successor than it can with a man who has removed himself from politics in an effort to achieve an acceptable settlement of the war?

Officials say that while they can only guess at an answer, Mr. Johnson will not allow Hanoi to conduct a "fight and talk" policy with impunity. Despite Defense Sec. Clark Clifford's statements of a manpower ceiling for Vietnam, coupled with a gradual turnover of the major combat role to the South Vietnamese, the president will employ "what is necessary" to maintain the allied position, these officials emphasize.

They dispute a growing belief among many observers here that once the war has been substantially turned down by Washington, it will be politically difficult, if not impossible, to crank it up again to levels that would include renewed bombing attacks north of the 20th parallel and additional American troops beyond the presently contemplated ceiling.

These sources add that, contrary to some reports, Clifford has not grabbed the ball away from Sec. of State Dean Rusk. They insist that Rusk has been in full agreement with the reassessment of policy that produced the apparently de-escalatory course, and that he welcomes the prospect of negotiations as much as anyone in the administration.

Seeks Change in Draft Rules

WASHINGTON—New Selective Service rules affecting graduate students and older draft registrants may cripple the United States in years ahead, a scientific manpower expert said today.

Elizabeth M. Vetter of Washington said in a talk prepared for delivery to the American Physical Society that the rules should be changed before severe damage done scientifically, technologically and educationally. President Johnson and his advisers have authority to alter the regulation, she added.

Mrs. Vetter is executive secretary of the Scientific Manpower Commission, a panel representing 11 leading professional societies. The commission has been critical of Selective Service policies aimed at drafting fledgling scientists.

Beginning this summer, Mrs. Vetter said, "college graduates and graduate students will bear the entire brunt of the draft" owing to two decisions made early this year.

One, by the National Security Council, ended deferments for many graduate students in universities and suspended deferments of workers in scarce skills. The other, by Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey, ordered drafting of oldest men first in the 19-25 age bracket.

Mrs. Vetter charted a sort of chain reaction that she said will make itself felt through the educational system all the way down to the kindergarten level.

First, graduate schools will be depleted of students, she said. Then undergraduate classes will suffer because many of them are taught by graduate students. In the next eight years only half the graduate students who would ordinarily earn doctor of philosophy degrees will do so, and the same will be true in the master's degree category.

"In the years ahead, the teachers shortage will increase all the way from kindergarten through the university; research efforts will lag, and some research will be abandoned," Mrs. Vetter asserted. She continued:

"Our national technological superiority will be seriously endangered, and at the same time our military efficiency may suffer because the services will be required to mold a fighting force out of inductees who are both older and better educated than the army says is optimum."

MECHANICAL MAN — Kingston and Benedictine Hospital children's wards benefited as did the Kingston Lions Exposition by the appearance of "Silo" the mechanical man this week. Performing at all three places, he delighted the audiences by presenting his routine with such perfection that it was extremely difficult to determine whether he is real or truly a robot. Not an eye blinked, not an expression changed as he went through such motions as picking up and holding a child or handing a youngster a book. At the top he is shown with John Johnson, a member of the Lions Club and young Timothy Klinger, a hospital patient. Left, he holds, tiny Elizabeth Curl, who in turn holds a lollipop. Watching is Ronald LeBlanc, a Lion and principal of Sophie Finn School. "Silo" who also performs year round in schools, fairs and hospitals is present nightly at the Lions Club Expo being held from 7 to 10:30 at the Armory on Manor Avenue. He will be there through Saturday night and may be found at the exhibition booth of the De Ville Contracting and Developing Company, manufacturers of residential sidings located at 104 Ontario Street, Albany. John Lewis, Lions Club member and employee of the New York Telephone Company has been responsible for Silo's appearance at the two hospitals and has arranged for publicity for his exposition appearances. ## Lions Expo Roars Into Last 2 Days

The Lions Expo really roared last night as 3,679 persons attended third night festivities. Total attendance to date is 8,187.

The 21st annual Exposition, Auto, Health and Home Show has many added attractions this year. A health clinic with many on-the-spot tests available and a trout pool with more fish featured have been the center of much attention.

At The Freeman booth, the teletype machine and record film of old copies of the newspaper are attracting patrons. Also featured at the booth is a statue of Sojourner Truth.

Patrons will have an opportunity to visit all the fascinating displays at the New York State Armory tonight and Saturday.

Minority Problems Church Discussion

Kingston Area Council of Churches executive committee meeting with the City Human Relations Commission discussed ways in which the community can act more directly on the problems and needs of minority groups.

Everette Hodge, president of the Kingston Branch National Association for Advancement of Colored People; Irving Bell, executive director of the human relations commission and Earl Little served as panel for a discussion of the report of the Commission on Civil Disorders. They thought the report was applicable to Kingston.

In council of churches action, a motion was made to open membership of the organization by lowering the financial obligation. The move will be acted upon by the general membership at a later date.

The council moved to support the human relations commission in seeking legislation which is less discriminatory against minority groups particularly in the construction trades.

A tutorial program in the Rondout area will be expanded through the cooperation of Miss Ann Vree, a teacher in the Port Elementary School and a former Peace Corps worker in Nigeria. The program would be in conjunction with the program already underway under sponsorship of churches in that area.

The life and work committee of the council has been asked to prepare a statement on open housing for the next meeting of the council late in May.

Gets Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. W. Mason Lawrence, deputy commissioner of the New York State Conservation Department, was appointed Wednesday by President Johnson as commissioner of the U.S. section of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission.

The president also appointed Dr. Marshall D. Gates, professor of chemistry at the University of Rochester, N.Y., to the president's committee on the national medal of science.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Some diplomats said today that U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's resignation from his U.N. post was motivated at least partly by disappointment because President Johnson left him out of Washington's current Vietnam peace efforts. Goldberg told a news conference after his resignation was announced Thursday that he felt W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, named by Johnson to talk to North Vietnam's representatives, were "very well qualified."

"I would not assume I would be called upon in that capacity," Goldberg said, but he declined to say whether he would have liked such a role.

Goldberg did say, however, that he regretted what would take place would "not take place in a U.N. forum."

"The U.N. is where it ought to take place," he added.

Goldberg was scheduled to open the debate today in the General Assembly's 124-nation main political committee on the treaty proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. He was to be followed by Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister V.V. Kuznetsov with both urging that the assembly endorse the treaty.

MECHANICAL MAN — Kingston and Benedictine Hospital children's wards benefited as did the Kingston Lions Exposition by the appearance of "Silo" the mechanical man this week. Performing at all three places, he delighted the audiences by presenting his routine with such perfection that it was extremely difficult to determine whether he is real or truly a robot. Not an eye blinked, not an expression changed as he went through such motions as picking up and holding a child or handing a youngster a book. At the top he is shown with John Johnson, a member of the Lions Club and young Timothy Klinger, a hospital patient. Left, he holds, tiny Elizabeth Curl, who in turn holds a lollipop. Watching is Ronald LeBlanc, a Lion and principal of Sophie Finn School. "Silo" who also performs year round in schools, fairs and hospitals is present nightly at the Lions Club Expo being held from 7 to 10:30 at the Armory on Manor Avenue. He will be there through Saturday night and may be found at the exhibition booth of the De Ville Contracting and Developing Company, manufacturers of residential sidings located at 104 Ontario Street, Albany. John Lewis, Lions Club member and employee of the New York Telephone Company has been responsible for Silo's appearance at the two hospitals and has arranged for publicity for his exposition appearances. ## Lions Expo Roars Into Last 2 Days

The Lions Expo really roared last night as 3,679 persons attended third night festivities. Total attendance to date is 8,187.

The 21st annual Exposition, Auto, Health and Home Show has many added attractions this year. A health clinic with many on-the-spot tests available and a trout pool with more fish featured have been the center of much attention.

Minority Problems Church Discussion

Kingston Area Council of Churches executive committee met with the City Human Relations Commission discussed ways in which churches action can act more directly on the problems and needs of minority groups.

Everette Hodge, president of the Kingston Branch National Association for Advancement of Colored People; Irving Bell, executive director of the human relations commission and Earl Little served as panel for a discussion of the report of the Commission on Civil Disorders. They thought the report was applicable to Kingston.

In council of churches action, a motion was made to open membership of the organization by lowering the financial obligation. The move will be acted upon by the general membership at a later date.

The council moved to support the human relations commission in seeking legislation which is less discriminatory against minority groups particularly in the construction trades.

Gets Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. W. Mason Lawrence, deputy commissioner of the New York State Conservation Department, was appointed Wednesday by President Johnson as commissioner of the U.S. section of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission.

The president also appointed Dr. Marshall D. Gates, professor of chemistry at the University of Rochester, N.Y., to the president's committee on the national medal of science.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Some diplomats said today that U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg's resignation from his U.N. post was motivated at least partly by disappointment because President Johnson left him out of Washington's current Vietnam peace efforts. Goldberg told a news conference after his resignation was announced Thursday that he felt W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, named by Johnson to talk to North Vietnam's representatives, were "very well qualified."

"I would not assume I would be called upon in that capacity," Goldberg said, but he declined to say whether he would have liked such a role.

Goldberg did say, however, that he regretted what would take place would "not take place in a U.N. forum."

"The U.N. is where it ought to take place," he added.

Goldberg was scheduled to open the debate today in the General Assembly's 124-nation main political committee on the treaty proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. He was to be followed by Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister V.V. Kuznetsov, with both urging that the assembly endorse the treaty.

Mightiest Nuclear Bomb Exploded in Nevada

By MIKE DOAN
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The mightiest nuclear bomb ever exploded in the United States shook the Nevada desert about 100 miles northwest of here at 7 a.m. PST today.

The blast, delayed one hour due to unfavorable weather, also was felt in Las Vegas.

Residents here said the blast rocked the city sharply for more than a minute.

Chandeliers swayed in the Mint Hotel in downtown Las Vegas.

The device being tested was an experimental hydrogen bomb in a chamber, 3,800 feet under Pahute Mesa in a lonely desert area.

Its power was rated as equivalent to a million tons of TNT, slightly stronger than the previous most powerful U.S. shot in that area, fired last December. A million tons is 50 times more powerful than the atomic bomb that wiped out Hiroshima in World War II.

Several buildings in small towns near the site were evacuated and a narrow road to the east was closed due to possible rock slides.

For a week scientists, businessmen and others have been protesting the shot on grounds it might cause damage or trigger earthquakes.

The United Auto Workers appealed Thursday to President Johnson for a postponement to evaluate hazards. Vice President Humphrey's office, various congressmen and the governor of Nevada got similar requests.

The federation of American Scientists—a group of 2,200 physicists and other scientists—called in Washington, D.C., for an indefinite suspension of all U.S. nuclear testing.

Test Deemed Safe
Howard Hughes, who has invested millions in Nevada hotels and casinos, asked for a 90-day delay. Aides said there was fear the blast might contaminate water or air or cause quakes.

The AEC replied that it already has spent $11 million on studies and deemed the test safe.

A blast equal to slightly less than a million tons of TNT last Dec. 20 was felt for hundreds of miles. The AEC said it followed up every complaint of damage and found none.

The AEC said the test was a necessary part of the defense effort, part of a program to make lighter and smaller new weapons, including antimissile systems.

Crowded Honeymoon
KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—On her honeymoon trip to Europe this summer Judy Hudson, 25, will be accompanied by eight of her drama students at Washington High School.

Miss Hudson's wedding to John Keene, an accountant who lives in Salina, will be June 22 at First Methodist church in Hays.

The trip to Europe will begin with a plane flight from Kansas City July 9. The students will enroll in university classes at Exeter, England for four weeks of study under the American Institute for Foreign Study.

The newly married couple will act as chaperones.

It was the first Arbor Day observance at the school. The entire student body and parents attended. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Fish Sees Dual Crisis For Officials in 1968

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for congress in the 28th District, speaking at a general education forum at the State University College at New Paltz, said two different sets of issues face those elected in 1968.

Fish said, "They will face an immediate iron triangle of issues. We are in a war costing many billions. Even serious peace negotiations will not in the near future materially reduce this cost. We have a war at home which should cost many billions. And we have a financial crisis of excessive inflation fed by already excessive deficits.

"The problem of government is to work inside this triangle. All candidates realize that in fact these three problems work against each other.

"Candidates will want to be for everything and therefore will tend not to confront these issues squarely.

"At the same time, America is entering into a new era. Post-Vietnam needs serious rethinking. What will be our responsibility to future Vietnamese? What will be our response to international lawlessness in the future?" Fish said.

"For many years we have been fighting fires around the world but we really thought through the role of the United Nations? Our role as a world policeman in underdeveloped nations? Can we say that today we have a truly global foreign policy? I think not.

"At the same time, we are moving our nation into the era of the 'learning state'. There is still, of course, unfinished business of the welfare state—poverty.

"But when in the near future one-third of our population are in school as students and teachers, surely the national commitment will be to a learning state," Fish concluded.

U.S. Gold Level At 32-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government shelled out about $2.2 billion of the nation's gold to foreign buyers during the gold crisis which reached its frenzied peak about one month ago.

This was the accounting the Treasury Department revealed late Thursday of U.S. gold losses which dropped the nation's entire supply to its lowest level in 32 years by the end of March—$10.703 billion.

There were indications of a further minor loss this month in sales to foreign governments but exact figures won't be available for another month.

No formal announcement was made by the department, which merely included the figures among the scores of tables it publishes monthly in the "Treasury Bulletin."

The over-all gold loss reached a monthly record during March at $1.197 billion, the bulk of it to cover wild buying on the London Gold Market before the flow of government gold to speculators was halted in mid-March.

Devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18 triggered the rush to buy gold and eventually led to a breakup of the London gold pool—the group of seven nations which provided enough gold from their reserves to meet the demand for the metal on the London market.

The purpose was to hold the price at $35 an ounce.

Here's how the Treasury broke down the U.S. gold drain:

—A total net loss of $2.262 billion for December through March. This included all gold lost since devaluation as part of the gold pool.

—Domestic sales of just over $63 million during the same period including about $14.1 million in March, the last month for sales to private American industrial users.

This left net sales to foreign buyers at roughly $2.2 billion.

An agreement among the gold pool partners last month fixed a two-price system—one of $35 an ounce among governments and a higher price set by supply and demand on the free market.

The governments agreed not to buy and sell gold on the open market and the United States ended sales to domestic users, forcing them to buy at the higher market price.

Before March, the previous record drain was $900 million in December.

Stone Ridge Library Fair Plans Made

Plans are well underway for the 33rd annual Stone Ridge Library Fair. It will be held on the library grounds on Saturday, June 29, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Robert S. Diamond is general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ted Grenda, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Davenport, advisory chairman.

The Stone Ridge Fair is well known for its unique features and interesting booths. Among the attractions this year will be an antiques booth, a book booth, art display, novelty booth, a casserole corner, garden shop and a nearly new shop. There will also be special booths and games for children.

Donations to the fair are being collected. Gifts of books, nearly new items and other articles may be left at the library, Route 209, Stone Ridge. The library may be contacted to arrange pick up of articles for the fair.

London Dockers In Another Protest

LONDON (AP)—Thousands of London dock workers struck again today for another march on Parliament to protest colored immigrants in Britain.

The strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and Protestant clergymen who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them back to work.

Scores of ships in the teeming port were left idle by the 24-hour walkout.

Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed the dockers' support for the inflammatory speech by Enoch Powell demanding a ban on colored immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

The strikers took to Parliament a petition signed by 3,000 dockers and merchant seamen demanding an immediate immigration ban and protesting the nation bill now before Parliament.

The bill, which was approved in principle by the House of Commons Tuesday, extends to housing and employment a previous act's ban on discrimination in such public places as theaters and restaurants. Thousands of dockworkers staged a similar strike and march on Parliament Tuesday to protest the bill and express support for Powell.

Thinks U.S. Should Solve Urban Problems

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—The United States should try to solve its "pressing" urban problems before forging ahead with its exploration of space, the director of Great Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory contends.

Sir Bernard Lovell, who was here for an address at Union College, was asked by a reporter Thursday whether this country should spend more money on "the space race."

"It would be very difficult and unjustified to spend much more money," Lovell said. "There are so many pressing problems in America which are obvious—pollution, surface transport and problems in your cities."

If the United States is going to survive, the scientist added, "it seems to me absolutely vital to direct considerable effort to the solution of these problems first."

Lovell also was asked whether he thought the United States or the Soviet Union led in the lunar race.

Meditation Guest

The Rev. John Koppenaal, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rhinebeck, will be the speaker for Morning Meditations on WGHQ Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 6:15 a.m. this coming week.

The program is sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association.

Retirement Help

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the New York State Employment Office, 16 Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston, on Wednesday, May 8, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. He will assist the railroad worker, his wife, widow or survivors in retirement and survivor problems and answer any inquiries which they may have in connection with the Railroad Retirement and Unemployment Insurance Acts.

U.S. Gold Level At 32-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government shelled out about $2.2 billion of the nation's gold to foreign buyers during the gold crisis which reached its frenzied peak about one month ago.

This was the accounting the Treasury Department revealed late Thursday of U.S. gold losses which dropped the nation's entire supply to its lowest level in 32 years by the end of March—$10.705 billion.

There were indications of a further minor loss this month in sales to foreign governments but exact figures won't be available for another month.

No formal announcement was made by the department, which merely included the figures among the scores of tables it publishes monthly in the "Treasury Bulletin."

The over-all gold loss reached a monthly record during March at $1.197 billion, the bulk of it to cover wild buying on the London Gold Market before the flow of government gold to speculators was halted in mid-March.

Devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18 triggered the rush to buy gold and eventually led to a breakup of the London gold pool—the group of seven nations which provided enough gold from their reserves to meet the demand for the metal on the London market.

The purpose was to hold the price at $35 an ounce.

Here's how the Treasury broke down the U.S. gold drain: —A total net loss of $2.262 billion for December through March. This included all gold lost since devaluation as part of the gold pool.

—Domestic sales of just over $63 million during the same period including about $14.1 million in March, the last month for sales to private American industrial users.

This left net sales to foreign buyers at roughly $2.2 billion.

An agreement among the gold pool partners last month fixed a two-price system—one of $35 an ounce among governments and a higher price set by supply and demand on the free market.

The governments agreed not to buy and sell gold on the open market and the United States ended sales to domestic users, forcing them to buy at the higher market price.

Before March, the previous record drain was $900 million in December.

Stone Ridge Library Fair Plans Made

Plans are well underway for the 33rd annual Stone Ridge Library Fair. It will be held on the library grounds on Saturday, June 29, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mrs. Robert S. Diamond is general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ted Grenda, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Davern, advisory chairman.

The Stone Ridge Fair is well known for its unique features and interesting booths. Among the attractions this year will be an antiques booth, a book booth, art display, novelty booth, a casserole corner, garden shop and a nearly-new shop. There will also be special booths and games for children.

Donations to the fair are being collected. Gifts of books, nearly new items and other articles may be left at the library, Route 209, Stone Ridge. The library may be contacted to arrange pick up of articles for the fair.

London Dockers In Another Protest

LONDON (AP)—Thousands of London dock workers struck again today for another march on Parliament to protest colored immigrants in Britain.

The strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and Protestant clergymen who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them back to work. Scores of ships in the teeming port were left idle by the 24-hour walkout.

The strikers took to Parliament a petition signed by 3,000 dockers and merchant seamen demanding an immediate immigration ban and protesting the nation bill now before Parliament.

The bill, which was approved in principle by the House of Commons Tuesday, extends to housing and employment a previous act's ban on discrimination in such public places as theaters and restaurants. Thousands of dockworkers staged a similar strike and march on Parliament Tuesday to protest the bill and express support for Powell.

County Chairman Part

In a Freeman article yesterday a statement attributed to James J. McCordle commenting on Wednesday night's Democratic County Committee meeting read: "This was a display of weakness on the city chairman's part and smacked of gag rule."

It should have read: "This was a display of weakness on the part of the county chairman."

The Rev. John Koppenaal, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rhinebeck, will be the speaker for Morning Meditations on WGHQ Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 6:15 a. m. this coming week.

Onteora Teachers Schedule Workshops

Teachers in the Onteora Central Schools are going back to school again.

The system has set aside Monday for a district-wide curriculum workshop which will be attended by all Onteora teachers. All schools in the district will be closed for the day.

The curriculum workshop, which will be held in the Onteora High School, will be devoted to demonstrations and actual practice in new teaching methods.

In the morning, new concepts in communications will be explored. The teachers will learn more about the use of educational television in the classroom, and there will be workshops on reading labs and the use of audio-visual aids.

Jack America, a professor at Ulster County Community College, will lead the discussion of educational television. Michael Kaufman of the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, will demonstrate new uses of audio-visual aids.

The workshops will include actual demonstrations in which the Onteora teachers will gain practical experience with the new equipment.

In the afternoon, discussion and demonstrations will center on two topics: Non-Graded Elementary Schools and Modular Scheduling in Secondary Schools.

Guidance Meet For Parents Of 6th Graders

The guidance department of Saugerties Junior High School will sponsor a meeting of sixth grade pupils and their parents in the school cafeteria Monday, May 13, at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the program is to acquaint pupils and parents with the junior high school and particularly the seventh grade.

Participating in the program will be Robert Moser, principal; Richard Redder, guidance counselor; Lawrence Keane, guidance counselor, and chairman of the meeting. There will be an opportunity for questions about any phase of the program and a conducted tour of the building for those interested.

Left-Wing Catholics Dissent With Vatican

The Vatican Daily L'Osservatore Romano, criticizing militant Catholics who have turned their backs on the Church-supported Premier Aldo Moro, intimated that such persons were not really Catholics any more.

The statement—and a congress of dissenting Catholics which touched off—added fuel to a controversy that has become one of the major issues in the campaign for the May 19-20 national elections.

Some 50 different groups of dissenting Catholics held their second congress Sunday in the Communist-run city of Bologna to protest what they call heavy-handed interference in politics by Italian bishops.

They called for a "New Left" outside the realm of the Christian Democrat and Socialist center-left alliance. They agreed to collaborate in preparation of a "White Book" to document "the meddling and pressure of the ecclesiastical hierarchy... in the present electoral moment."

The dissenting Catholics, some of whom have agreed to run as independents on the Communist party ticket, were referring in part to a January statement issued in the name of the Italian bishops' conference calling on Catholics to vote for the Christian Democrats once again.

This drew protests from some liberal bishops notably Michele Cardinal Pellegrino of Turin and Archbishop Salvatore Bascari of Ravenna. At a later meeting the bishops failed to agree on any clear-cut declaration on politics.

Critics of the exhortation on political "unit of Catholics" declared that it was not in keeping with the teaching of the Second Vatican Council and that a handful of bishops drew it up without consulting the rest.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was slightly ahead in active trading early Friday.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 120 issues on the New York Stock Exchange, but the exchange's index of some 1,200 common stocks was barely higher.

An indifferent performance by blue chips dampened the list.

M-G-M tacked on about 2 points amid further rumblings of another struggle for control.

Despite higher quarterly earnings, General Motors merely inched to the upside. Chrysler tacked on more than a point while Ford and American Motors eased.

Crowell-Collier dipped 1/4 to 34 1/2 on an opening block of 29,400 shares.

Among other operators, Union Carbide rose 1/4 to 44 1/2 on 6,000 shares; Chrysler gained 1/4 at 65 1/2 on 5,400; and International Paper eased 1/4 to 29 on 5,700.

Du Pont, Phelps Dodge, Xerox and Penn Central were among 1-point losers.

Buffeted by this week's reports and rumors about selection of a peace talk site, the market seemed to be tiring, brokers said. Sentiment was dampened by news that the United States in March had suffered its first foreign-trade deficit in five years.

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Electrospace gained 2. Bunker Ramo rose to 14 1/2 on 12,000 shares.

Woman Hurt, Is Arrested After Mishap

A two-car accident in the Dutchess County Town of Rhinebeck sent a woman to the hospital with a concussion and contusions of the left thigh.

The woman, June Weber, 42, of Kipp Road, Rhinebeck, was arrested for reckless driving.

According to Rhinebeck State Police reports, she was traveling south on Route 9G at about 9:45 p. m.

Losing control of her vehicle, the Weber woman ran off the right side of the road knocking down the guard rails. The impact of which turned her car around where it went in a southerly direction.

Traveling a reported 500 feet, her car sideswiped a car operated by Archie Wandell, 40, of 97 Prospect Street, Winstead, Conn.

The Weber's car then traveled 200 feet more before overturning on the northbound shoulder of the highway.

She was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck where she remains in satisfactory condition, according to hospital officials.

Reagan Poll Dips

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A majority of Californians still approve of Ronald Reagan's performance as governor, the State Poll indicates, but the margin has slipped slightly.

The poll, conducted by Don M. Muchmore, found 51 per cent of the voters approving of the way Reagan is handling his job, against 53 per cent in both March and September 1967.

Q — I share your bullishness because I would like more income. I already own some shares, and I'd like to add to them. What do you think of the company? Should I buy more?—F.P.

A — I think well of the company and approve your idea of increasing your commitment. The yield of 5.2 per cent represents a well-secured annual dividend of $1.20. The company has increased the dividend regularly each year since 1961, during the same interval earnings have risen 100 per cent. While the larger part of TET's business is subject to FFC regulation — about 75 per cent — the remainder consists of diversified oil and petrochemical operations with good long-term growth potential. This investment should work out well for you.

Wants Enforcement Of Defense Work Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice only company which could handle the job, but GE said it did not at that time have enough engineers to do the work.

The Navy asked the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce in April 1967 to invoke its powers under the Defense Production Act and issue a directive to GE to "accept, produce and deliver" on the propulsion system order, Rickover testified. The act provides for such a directive when critical defense supplies and services are involved.

The BDSA reported however, Rickover said, that compliance with the priority regulations was not involved, that the problem was a technical one, and issued no directive.

No Other Problem

"There was no other technical problem I am aware of unless the Department of Commerce considered the firm's assertion that they did not have enough engineers to do the job a technical problem," Rickover said.

"At the very same time the firm was telling the Department of Commerce that they did not have the necessary engineers, I had one of my people check the firm's telephone directory. We quickly found that engineers experienced on this type of Navy work were listed as being assigned to commercial work."

"In fairness to the firm, however, after they finally did agree to do the job for the Navy in August 1967, they quickly assigned the necessary engineering personnel."

"I am convinced this firm had sufficient qualified personnel to start this job all along."

As a result, Rickover testified, "the Navy's new submarine project was delayed by more than five months."

Teachers Talk About Clean Air

George Washbourne, department head of Science in the Kingston Consolidated School District, assisted by biology teacher Richard Mercier, presented a program at the Ulster County Citizens' Committee for Clean Air meeting last night, which outlined the school system's curriculum in relation to air-pollution problems.

The purpose of this presentation was to explore avenues of information exchange so that the Citizens' Committee may be of service to the school system in supplying research materials on pollution topics.

Mrs. Mary Kirby, Town of Ulster, reported on the State Department hearing on ambient air-quality standards as related to cement and aggregate industries. This hearing, held April 16, under the direction of Alexander Rihm, heard testimony from industrial executives, health department officials, and from Mrs. Kirby, representing the Citizens' Committee.

The next meeting of the Committee will be on Thursday, May 23, featuring Alexander Aldrich, chairman of the Hudson River Valley Commission, as speaker.

Sidewalk Closed

A section of Broadway sidewalk from Stuyvesant Street to Newkirk Avenue has been closed to pedestrian travel.

The sidewalk was undermined in the recent heavy rains and is unsafe. Pedestrians should use the uptown side of Broadway in this area.

Rondout Valley School Lists Public Meetings

The 1968-69 school tax in the Rondout Valley Central School District will be down by at least two per cent over 1967-68 in spite of a $264,003 increase in the overall school budget.

Tax reduction is made possible by an increase in state aid. The amount of reduction will depend on what state aid formula the New York State Legislature passes.

Copies of the 1968-69 budget were mailed out to district residents prior to the Easter recess. The total budget figure is $3,853,025, as opposed to $3,589,022 for 1967-68. Tax rate on true value will be down at least 59 cents, from the 1967-68 figure of $26.70 to $26.11. The relatively small increase in the budget is, the Board feels, most reasonable considering that an entire new school building, the Middle School, will be in operation next year.

Also contributing to the higher budget figure are the automatic increases in many fixed charges over which the board has no control, and salary increments granted to professional and non-professional personnel in order to keep the Rondout Valley School District competitive with neighboring districts.

Four public informational meetings to present facts and figures about the new budget and to answer any questions that district residents may have, will be held next week in the four elementary schools. Administration officials and Board of Education members will be present at each meeting, all of which will begin at 8 p. m. The meeting schedule is as follows: Monday, April 29, Kerhonkson Elementary School; Tuesday, April 30, Accord School; Wednesday, May 1, Marbletown School; and Thursday, May 2, Rosendale School.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

New York City, notes The World Almanac, is experiencing a sharp increase in the number of abandoned vehicles littering its streets and highways. The number of junked cars the city's sanitation department has disposed of at a cost of over $1 million a year has increased as follows: 1966, 2,500; 1967, 5,117; 1968, 6,229; 1969, 13,579; 1970, 23,386; 1971, 21,751; and 1972, 23,795.

Wants Enforcement Of Defense Work Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover charges that some corporations have refused, or delayed accepting, contracts to produce less rigidly controlled civilian work.

And, he said, the law which would force the companies to take defense work is not properly enforced.

Rickover made the charges in a closed session of the House Banking and Currency Committee on April 11. The committee voted this week to make the testimony public but it still has not been officially released.

"It has become increasingly difficult to get industry to accept and perform orders for military equipment in a timely and economical manner," Rickover testified.

He said he has had, at times, to place orders for equipment as long as four years before it is needed because "industry would much prefer to do civilian work because they do not have to expend as much design and engineering effort on the commercial work."

Rickover is the Navy's deputy commander for nuclear propulsion of the Naval Ship Systems Command and director of the Division of Naval Reactors for the Atomic Energy Commission.

He told the committee that four times during March 1967, General Electric refused to bid on a contract for propulsion plant equipment for a new submarine considered to be an "urgent military requirement."

The Navy had determined, Rickover said, that GE was the only company which could handle the job, but GE said it did not at that time have enough engineers to do the work.

The Navy asked the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce in April 1967 to invoke its powers under the Defense Production Act and issue a directive to GE to "accept, produce and deliver" on the propulsion system order, Rickover testified. The act provides for such a directive when critical defense supplies and services are involved.

The sidewalk was undermined in the recent heavy rains and is unsafe. Pedestrians should use the opposite side of Broadway in this area.

Rondout Valley School Lists Public Meetings

The 1968-69 school tax in the Rondout Valley Central School District will be down by at least two per cent over 1967-68 figure of $26.70 to $26.11. The relatively small increase in the budget is, the Board feels, most reasonable considering that an entire new school building, the Middle School, will be in operation next year.

Also contributing to the higher budget figure are the automatic increases in many fixed charges over which the board has no control, and salary increments granted to professional and non-professional personnel in order to keep the Rondout Valley School District competitive with neighboring districts.

Four public informational meetings to present facts and figures about the new budget and to answer any questions that district residents may have, will be held next week in the four elementary schools.

Administration officials and Board of Education members will be present at each meeting, all of which will begin at 8 p. m. The meeting schedule is as follows: Monday, April 29, Kerhonkson Elementary School; Tuesday, April 30, Accord School; Wednesday, May 1, Marlinton School; and Thursday, May 2, Rosendale School.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

New York City, notes The World Almanac, is experiencing a sharp increase in the number of abandoned vehicles littering its streets and highways. The number of junked cars the city's sanitation department has disposed of at a cost of over $1 million a year has increased as follows: 1960, 2,500; 1961, 5,117; 1962, 6,229; 1963, 13,579; 1964, 23,386; 1965, 21,751; and 1966, 23,795.

Four Ways to Unclog That Sink

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There are four standard methods of unclogging a sink drain. Fortunately, any or all of them can be utilized by the amateur plumber with an almost certain chance of success.

Only when the stoppage point is a long way from the troubled sink, such as in the outside drainage line, will all these methods fail, in which case you will need the services of a professional. But that kind of stoppage usually will show up at other plumbing fixtures, rather than a single sink, a tip-off to get a plumber immediately.

house. Before using the plunger, plug up any overflow outlet in the sink with a wet rag. Kitchen sinks usually don't have such outlets, but bathroom basins often do.

Place the rubber cup of the plunger directly over the drain opening, which should have at least two or three inches of water over it. Hold the handle with both hands. Press down, then lift the cup very quickly. The suction action often will dislodge minor obstructions. Sometimes this will work immediately; sometimes you have to repeat the suction movement a dozen or more times.

Materials that do not come loose with a plunger usually can be handled with a "snake" or auger. While these words mean the same to most persons—both tools being long, flexible wires with hooks on the ends—the auger is the more powerful, having a crank handle to induce a corkscrew action. A snake is inserted into the drain and jiggled around with an up-and-down movement. In using an auger, the crank handle is turned in a clockwise direction.

The easiest way to open a clogged sink drain—and the one that should be tried first—is to use a rubber plunger or "plumber's friend." Most homeowners keep one around the house.

If the obstruction cannot be dislodged in either of these ways, it is necessary to open the trap, the U-shape pipe under the fixture. Take off the cleanout plug, unscrew the nuts that hold the U in place. Remember that there is water in the drain, so be sure to place a pail or other container under the trap before going to work on it. Use a snake or piece of wire with a hook on the end of it to pull out any clogged material on either side of the trap. Be sure to replace the plug before you turn on the water.

The fourth method of unclogging a drain is with a commercial cleaner. Since it is a strong chemical, work very carefully. Different brands call for different ways of using, so read and follow the directions to the letter. Such cleaners often are especially and quickly effective if the drain is only partially stopped. Their purpose is to dissolve accumulated matter, such as grease which has blocked the passage of food particles. Used regularly, they can prevent stoppage.

Hints on House Care

Q: I am planning to put an outside light at the beginning of our long driveway so that it can be turned on and off at the garage. I have some plastic-covered cable. Can this be used if I run the cable underground?

A: Better check with your local authorities. Some codes require that all underground wiring be placed in conduits; that is, metal pipes. Others permit certain types of cables to be used underground provided that conduit is used where the wires enter and leave the ground.

Q: I am getting ready to buy some insulation for an attic we expect to make into two rooms. Some of the advertised brands speak of a vapor barrier. What is this?

A: A vapor barrier is a substance placed on insulation to prevent moisture from going through and making the insulation soggy. The barrier should be placed on the room side of the insulation.

Q: About six months ago I bought a varnish brush to use on a coffee table I had made. I had heard so much about the necessity of getting a good quality brush that I bought the most expensive one they had. I used it satisfactorily, cleaned it in wax paper and put it away.

Recently I had occasion to do another varnishing job. The brush was soft and apparently in good shape, but after I used it, I found tiny flakes here and there on the surface of the wet varnish. There was no movement of dust in the room, so it wasn't from that. I am convinced the flakes came from the brush. Can you tell me what caused this?

A: It appears very much that, while you cleaned most of the bristles, you did not get all the varnish out of the heel of the brush near the ferrule. This residue hardened and became brittle during the period when the brush was not in use. When you used it again, little specks of varnish dropped down into the wet varnish. It is a common practice to take care of the bristles yet neglect that part of the brush to the ferrule.

The Triton: A Modest Home

By JACK McLENEY

The traffic pattern is an important factor in one level home planning, particularly in the dwelling of modest proportions. The greater the accessibility to all areas the lesser the chance for intrusion and confusion as the family moves about in its daily activities. An excellent example of good traffic pattern is contained in this three bedroom design, called "The Triton."

Two of the bedrooms are located at the rear; the third features a private lavatory. The living room with its modern fireplace is well out of line of general movement thru the house, a factor that eases the burden on the homemaker.

The exterior styling has a rustic look and even with the built-in two car garage, "The Triton" is no longer than the average medium priced ranch homes that dot the countryside. In the event the lot size does not allow enough room for entry to the garage, the door could very simply be oriented to the front; however, if it is at all possible to keep the garage door as shown, we would suggest that you do so because the mullion windows as illustrated give the house a much longer look.

Blueprints for the medium priced ranch conform to the FHA and VA building requirements, and are available by using the accompanying coupon. The living area shows 1,334 square feet and the garage adds another 480 square feet.

So do fats and greases, which cling to the sides of the pipe and eventually trap the other materials. When fats and grease do go down the drain, as might be the case during the washing of dishes, let the hot water run for a few minutes to flush the pipe thoroughly.

The Valence

By Jack McELENKY
Changes in planning for the sake of being different do not, as a rule, produce an efficient layout. However, when the results are satisfactory the effort is well worthwhile.

Today's feature is a good example. This economy "L"- shaped ranch has an excellent traffic pattern, showing two of the bedrooms at the front and a large living room at the rear. A study of the floor plan will also show that there is a positive separation between these two areas.

To complete the picture the exterior makes use of stock double-hung windows and wood

Don't Scalp Your Lawn This Spring

By EARL ARONSON

When you scalp your lawn in the spring, or virtually remove the green leaf, both stored food and food-making ability are eliminated. This is what Dr. Robert W. Schery, director of The Lawn Institute, Marysville, Ohio, terms misguided mowing. Cutting too closely is rough on fine Kentucky bluegrass-fine fescue lawns. These straight-growing grasses perk up early in spring.

Sudden, heavy cutting is especially bad if the lawn has been heavily fertilized. Abundant nitrogen stimulates green leaf, and the food resources are mostly "in the leaf" rather than stored below ground as in winter, says Dr. Schery.

Trim off winter-killed foliage before new growth quickens. This will spruce up the lawn and cause it to green up a bit earlier. Don't wait until new growth is several inches high, then cut drastically, unless you are planning to get rid of coarse field grasses and reseed with finer varieties.

Fertilization fine-textured grass and proper mowing are the three fundamentals for a good lawn. Excellent progress has been made lately toward providing specially designed lawngrass fertilizers.

For a good leaf crop, you need nitrogen, which stimulates growth and desirable color. Nitrogen usually is double the percentage of other major ingredients, phosphorus and potassium. The food we applied this spring was 12-3-3. Researchers are giving serious thought also to phosphorus and potassium. At a national meeting of agronomists, it was shown that sufficient potassium increases hardness of grasses tender to cold, helps prevent disease and makes the leaf less flabby. The exact percentage of potassium would vary with the lighter in weight and neither soil.

All-American Gladiolus Back

It's red, white and blue for the top Gladiolus of 1968.

The All-America Gladiolus Selections (AAGS) of Jeffersonville, Ind., has chosen as the most meritorious gladiolus:

Royalty (456) a velvety, rose-red with a stately flowerhead on which 8 of 20 or more buds open at the same time.

Purity (500) with ruffled and fluted white florets, borne on sturdy medium-height stems. Six to seven giant blooms open simultaneously.

Bluebird (277) a clear, bright blue miniature, with eight small, frilled florets graceful on slender spikes. The white throats are framed in a shade of blue rare in gladiolus.

J. R. & C. T. Larus of Avon, Conn., developed Royalty. Henry Fritscher of Santa Rosa, Calif., won his first All-America honors with Purity. Ralph Baerman of Salem, Ore., introduced Bluebird, which blooms in 70 days. Royalty will bloom in 85 days and Purity in 82-85 days.

The 1967 winners were American Beauty and Kon-Tiki.

A Reel Comeback

The reel-type lawn mower may become more popular because of a demand for quality lawns and safety, says mower-maker Einar Jacobsen.

"Long associated with the quality turf of golf courses, fairways and greens, the reel mower leaves a better looking, greener lawn because it shears the grass blade instead of fracturing or tearing it," he adds.

"Reels also provide an argument for economy since they have approximately twice the useful life of a rotary mower. In fact, many 15-year owners boast of still using their first and only reel mower."

We swapped last year from rotary to reel, partly because of the safety factor. We consider the reel safer because there is less danger from flying objects and because the cutters are in full view of the operator.

Incidentally, the power mower industry expects sales to exceed five million units for the first time in 1968 (4.9 million last year). Riding mower sales continue to climb. There are about 25 million power mowers now in use in this country.

The Lawn Institute estimates that with about 2 million seeds per pound and 50 million pounds of seed used, 100 trillion bluegrass seeds are used annually in the United States.

A friend reports that it took three men to carry a giant philodendron that had decorated a Hackensack, N.J., barber shop for more than two years. The philodendron had grown to a length of 85 feet when the shop moved.

The Valence

By Jack McEENEY

Changes in planning for the sake of being different do not, as a rule, produce an efficient layout. However, when the results are satisfactory the effort is well worthwhile.

Today's feature is a good example. This economy "L"- shaped ranch has an excellent traffic pattern, showing two of the bedrooms at the front and a large living room at the rear. A study of the floor plan will also show that there is a positive separation between these two areas.

To complete the picture the exterior makes use of stock at moderate cost by using the double-hung windows and wood-shingles throughout the sides and rear. "The Valence" contains 988 square feet of living area. This pretty little home is designed to conform with VA and FHA requirements.

Complete working plans and form specifications are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon.

Boice Promotes Magee

Ralph A. Boice, president of Boice Gages, Inc., Hyde Park, has announced the promotion of H. James Magee to the position of general manager of the Metrology Division of the firm.

In making the announcement Boice said that Magee will assume full responsibility for all production in the electronics and computer programs in the Metrology Division.

The new Boice Computer System makes possible instant analysis of actual dimensions, not theoretical. It eliminates hand and human errors. Magee stated that the new device makes use of printed tape, and is utilized for storage of instruction and permanent records.

Magee joined Boice Gages in 1965. He formerly was employed by W. & H. E. Gurley, Inc., manufacturers of photoelectric and optical instruments and International Business Machines Corp. He attended schools in Lansingburgh, Hudson Valley Technical Institute in Troy and the Wards Schools of Computer and Programming, Albany.

The new computerized system will be introduced at the A. S. T. M. E. Tool Show in Philadelphia, Pa., April 29 through May 3.

The Hyde Park firm will join approximately 500 exhibitors representing metal working industries from every state in the country, as well as industries from Europe and Asia.

Besides the computer system, Boice Gage will show a master-gage for internal bore gages, gage setting and checking apparatus, an indicator feeler, biasing and reversible means electronic indicator, a new leveling table device, and a slide propulsion means, applied as a height stand.

In addition to President Boice, other officials to be present at the tool show are: William G. Livingston, assistant to the president and general sales manager; Gary Aveclair, director of research engineering; Allan Linderholm, chief design engineer; H. James Magee, new general manager of the Metrology division, and R. Ernest Boice, sales engineer.

There will also be an important meeting on May 1 of more than 140 sales and engineer representatives of Boice Gages, from the United States and Canada, who will convene at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia.

CALDOR'S SEMINAR — Seven management and executive position personnel at Caldor, Inc., were given special service awards at a recent seminar The M People Business held in Norwalk, Conn. The seminar, a workshop on improved methods for managing people and serving the public, was conducted by Dr. Henry A. Singer, noted psychologist and management educator. Carl Bennett, Caldor president, presented the awards. Attending the event were (L-R) Bennett, Dr. Singer, Luke Kirby, Julius Golombik and Harry Ellam, all Caldor assistant vice presidents. In his talk, Bennett said the seminar was "another progressive step by Caldor in its policy of developing the most advanced techniques of management and merchandising in the mass retailing field."

NEW RUNWAY AT AERO LAKE — Work is progressing on a new 2,700 foot runway at Aero Lake Airport off Route 9W in the Town of Esopus. Co-owners are Gene Massa and Sanford Whitman. Campsites along the lake are planned in addition to a snack bar to be completed May 1. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

CALDOR'S SEMINAR — Seven management and executive position personnel at Caldor, Inc., were given special service awards at a recent seminar The M People Business held in Norwalk, Conn. The seminar, a workshop on improved methods for managing people and serving the public, was conducted by Dr. Henry A. Singer, noted psychologist and management educator. Carl Bennett, Caldor president, presented the awards. Attending the event were (L-R) Bennett, Dr. Singer, Luke Kirby, Julius Golombik and Harry Ellam, all Caldor assistant vice presidents. In his talk, Bennett said the seminar was "another progressive step by Caldor in its policy of developing the most advanced techniques of management and merchandising in the mass retailing field."

Navy Needs Builders

Local Navy Recruiter Chief James A. Juliano has recently announced that there are several openings in the Navy's SEABEE Program for experienced construction workers.

Chief Juliano also stated that although the maximum age limit is 40, it is possible to waive this requirement, especially for men with prior military service. Enlistments are for 30 months and the pay scale starts at a grade depending upon the man's experience in the construction field.

Chief Juliano said that the openings in the construction program apply to men with experience in surveying, carpentry, welding, electricity, equipment operation, mechanics, plumbing, concrete work, linemen, and many other types of work in the construction field.

Breitenstein Tops

Army Private Terry Breitenstein, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Breitenstein, 16 Elwyn Lane, Woodstock, fired expert with the M-14 rifle near the completion of basic combat training at Ft. Dix, N.J., April 3. The expert rating is the highest mark a soldier can achieve on his weapons qualification test. Pvt. Breitenstein received his AAS degree in 1967 from the State University of New York at Delhi and was employed by IBM Kingston before entering the Army.

Booms Too Much

CORTEZ, Colo. (AP) — Sonic booms caused by overflying jets are damaging 2,000-year-old Indian cliff dwellings and disrupting the tranquility of Mesa Verde National Park in southwestern Colorado, Meredith Guillett, park superintendent said Wednesday.

Guillett said nearly 66,000 tons of rock fell Feb. 21 after two supersonic jets passed over and added that two or three thunderclaps a day was common now. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall has appointed a committee to study the problem, Guillett said.

HENRY STONE

Sergeant Stone, Vietnam Advisor

VIETNAM — Senior Master Sgt. Henry Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stone of Kerkonkson, is on duty with the Air Force Advisory Group with headquarters at Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam.

The mission of the group, comprised of 400 USAF personnel serving throughout Vietnam, is to advise and assist in the Vietnamese Air Force (VNAF) in achieving a high degree of combat readiness.

The group also acts in an advisory capacity to the Military Assistance Command (MACV) and US Seventh Air Force commanders on matters relating to effective utilization of VNAF airpower.

Exceptional meritorious achievement during a two-year period recently earned the US Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for the Advisory Group. Sergeant Stone, a transportation superintendent, came to Vietnam from Westover AFB, Mass.

The sergeant attended Kerkonkson High School and is married to the former Ruth M. Fox from Bermuda.

Apple Industry Curios

Beginning Sunday, April 28, and continuing for one month, approximately 74 eighteenth and nineteenth century antique apple parers will go on display at Museum Village of Smith's Clove, located on Route 17 in Monroe, N.Y.

The exhibition includes parers, corers, pickers and drivers from the collections of James A. Keilior of Wading River, Long Island, and Andrew Reid of Poughkeepsie. In addition, several early parers from the Museum's collections are included.

Apples were an important part of the agricultural life of Early America and in the fall great quantities were prepared for making apple butter and cider.

Did you miss her in 1962 and 1964? Who are you going to miss in 1968?

This is Estelle Parsons. As most of you know, she has just won stardom's most coveted award, Hollywood's OSCAR, for her role in BONNIE AND CLYDE.

Estelle Parsons was a resident actress at The Woodstock Playhouse in 1962 and in 1964. She will be remembered for her marvelous portrayal of Mrs. Peachum in "The Threepenny Opera", Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady" and Jenny in the revival of "The Threepenny Opera". As they say in our trade, Estelle is now "at the top of the pile". We were proud of her when she was here... and we are proud now that she was here!!

The Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre has opened its first two productions of the Spring season. Eugene O'Neill's LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT and Harold Pinter's THE HOMECOMING. Both have been highly acclaimed by the public and the press as first-class professional entertainment. This Friday at 8:40 and Sunday at 7:30 you can see performances of Pinter's engrossing and tantalizing comedy, THE HOMECOMING; and on Saturday at 2 and 8:30 we will present O'Neill's Pulitzer Prize-winning LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT.

Don't miss the opportunity to see the best in professional live theatre when its right in your own back yard! Don't wait for the 1969 and 1970 Academy Awards. Come on over the centrally heated Woodstock Playhouse and sit down to the pleasure that only live professional theatre can give you.

Problem of the Wall Street Pigeons: A Would-Be Bounty Hunter Offers Help

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

A solution to Uptown Kingston's pigeon problem was offered this week at Nekos Pharmacy, Wall Street but no one seems to know who the would-be benefactor is or how he can be reached for further details.

Trapping and Ouster

The gentleman who made the offer said he would trap all the pigeons around the county court house and jail for a payment of 25 cents each, presumably payable by the county. The pigeons caught would be transported to a game preserve in Canada. There is, however, a question whether or not Canadian authorities would permit the import of the pigeons.

Whether or not the offer has been made to some county official could not be determined. Commissioner of Jurors John L. Smith says he has not been approached and Sheriff William B. Martin claims no one has contacted him on the subject.

Officials at the county office building had the same answer. Clerk of the County Legislature Edward Mance said he has received no communication with such an offer and County Auditor and Purchasing Agent Joseph A. Gentile also denied any knowledge of the pigeon offer.

The pigeon swarm has been a problem of long standing in the uptown area. Droppings on the window sills and rain gutters in huge heaps are unsightly and a health hazard and are blocking the down spouts at the county jail.

The simplest solution would be to poison them and collect the carcasses. However, this method of disposal is frowned upon by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and other groups dedicated to the cause of wild life preservation.

Another Solution

Another solution reportedly under study is the use of a fertility inhibitor believed to be in the works at the Cornell University testing laboratory. This is supposedly a chemical hormone which curbs reproduction of the species. This would be a long-range program.

Scores of people in county officialdom have solutions. Many of them are impractical and some humorous. None of the solutions are acceptable and at the same time humane.

The shocking process by electricity used on Old Dutch Church deters the birds from landing there, but chases them to another building. The dummy owls perched on the court house serve the same purpose and as soon as a pigeon sees that the owl does not move the bird is no longer fooled.

If the offer heard at Nekos this week is genuine, it may be the answer and may solve the problem of pigeon fallout forever.

Eases Bans On Burning; Has New System

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Conservation Department eased its bans on outdoor burning Thursday and then announced it and the U.S. Weather Bureau had developed a technique for alerting the public to daily levels of fire danger.

The department, noting that rain this week soaked the ground in most sections of the state, lifted bans on outdoor fires that had affected 15 counties for several weeks.

At the same time, the department said that the U.S. Weather Bureau in Albany would begin Monday to issue daily reports based on the bureau's weather forecasts and a subsequent analysis by fire specialists in the department.

The agencies said the state would be divided into three parts in the report: Northeastern Zone, comprising the area north of the Mohawk River; the Southeastern Zone, which includes the lower Hudson Valley and the counties of Otsego, Schoharie, Delaware and Sullivan; and the Western Zone, comprising the counties of Madison, Chenango and Broome and all other counties to the west.

cuit television which is being used to show the public videotaped highlights of college life, facilities and educational programs.

College faculty and staff members are available at the booth to answer questions the public may have about the College. Three students, John Barnes, Richard Barnard, Thomas Walsh, Kenneth Scarr, and Frank Striegel also are assisting at the booth.

The booth was set up by James C. Haviland, director of community services at the College, and John America, the director of instructional media.

In addition, eight Medical Laboratory Technology students of the college are assisting at the Health Booth at the Lions Club Exposition.

These students are taking blood samples for analysis, utilizing a Coulter Counter, a machine which electronically counts blood cells. The eight students are Alice Lawrence, Jeanette Harte, David Slocum, Susan Scheringer, Rochelle Falvey, Elizabeth Horton, Marilyn Winfield and Patricia Davis.

Arrangements for these students to assist at the Health Booth were made by Richard Glazer, an associate professor of biology at U.C.C.C.

Local College Prof Will Teach in India

Gregory Johnson, an assistant professor of engineering technologies at Ulster County Community College, has been selected to go to India this summer to teach polytechnic teachers practical methods of teaching electronics.

He is scheduled to leave the United States about May 25 and will teach in Madras, India, until the end of August. He will resume teaching at UCC next September.

Johnson will teach in India for the National Science Foundation and was selected for the assignment by the Agency for International Development. To prepare for the teaching assignment, Johnson in February attended a seminar on India sponsored by the National Science Foundation in India.

Johnson has traveled extensively in India and is well versed on that nation. From 1962 to 1964 he was a Peace Corps teacher in Gujarat, India, and last summer he spent considerable time in India while on an around-the-world trip.

Women's GOP Club Hears Talk About NYS Election Law

Mrs. Valerie L. Q. Sheeley, Deputy Election Commissioner of the Ulster County Board of Elections, speaking before the Ulster County Woman's Republican Club meeting last week pointed out some pertinent date regarding N.Y. State Election Law for voters: (1) a person who will be 21 by Election Day (November 5, 1968) may register at the Board of Elections now; (2) voters who have moved since their last registration should reregister at the Board now and if they were enrolled with a political party, have such enrollment transferred to the new election district in order not to be disenfranchised at the Primary Election, June 18, 1968; (3) a voter may also enroll with a political party now for the purpose of voting in the June Primary if he did not enroll at the last annual enrollment for the following reasons—because he became of age after the preceding General Election; because he was naturalized subsequent to 90 days prior to the preceding General Election; because he did not have the necessary residential requirements; because he was a member of the armed forces; because of being a spouse, parent or child of a service man accompanying them; because he was an inmate or patient of a Veterans hospital located outside of the State of New York; or because he was incapacitated by illness.

Continuing Mrs. Sheeley stated that the Board of Elections handled 61,983 registrations last year under the new Permanent Personal Registration system, has tabulated and processed enrollments for each registered person and is now in the process of reapportioning the 13 wards of the City of Kingston in order that new wards and districts will be used at the coming Primary Election in June. The Board of Elections also processed, during the year of 1967, 336 applications for registration and absentee ballots for servicemen and their dependents and received their applications for absentee voting from people who were unable for reasons as defined in the N.Y. State Election Law, from appearing in person at their regular voting place on Election Day, Nov. 7, 1967.

Mrs. Sheeley's presentation was informative and the question and answer period that followed was well participated in by all members present.

Mrs. Walter Caunitz, chairman of the "I Am an American Day" dinner to be held May 17 at the Governor Clinton Hotel, has appointed the following committees: program, Mrs. Raymond LeFever; tickets, Miss Cordelia Feltman; Mrs. John Salapatis; Mrs. Lucille Inarra; decorations, Mrs. John Schomer; hostesses, Mrs. Jo Dunham; and publicity, Marguerite C. Derringer. Tickets are available from club members. Guest speaker for this event will be Mrs. Lawrence George, third member of the Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Club president, Mrs. Frederic Stane, announced the annual meeting of the Third Judicial District Republican Women at Schraff's Metal Route 6W A1, home on May 18. A seminar will begin at 10 a.m. followed by luncheon and election of officers for the year 1968. Members from the Ulster County Club who will attend are Mrs. Frederic Stang, Mrs. Raymond LeFever, Mrs. William Krum, Miss Cordelia Feltman and Mrs. Walter Caunitz. If any other member would like to attend this meeting, they should contact Mrs. Stang before May 10.

The "I Am American Day" dinner will replace the club meeting in the month of May. There will be a paid up membership cocktail party at the home of Mrs. Jo Dunham for the June meeting. Members will soon be receiving announcement of this through the mail.

New Series Monday

Whatever other revolts stir the young people of today, 99 per cent of them do NOT rebel against a realistic code of etiquette. On the contrary, Elizabeth Post's mail indicates that they desperately want to act correctly—even perhaps on the picket line.

In line with this, the Woman's Pages of The Kingston Daily Freeman will feature a 12-part serialization of "The Emily Post Book of Etiquette for Young People," beginning Monday, April 29.

While the topics are geared to the young set, uncertain parents, overly strict parents and those who are too permissive have much to learn from this series as well. The information is as up to date as the mini-skirt.

This plain-talking 12-part serialization deals with: Etiquette Begins at Home; Your Personal Appearance; Dressing for the Occasion; Colorful Language vs. Poor Taste; Telephone—Potential Family Battleground; Manners and Driving; Tips for the Babysitter; Girls in Office Jobs; Dating Data—The Opening Formalities; On Keeping It Cool; Going Steady; and Party Problems.

Start reading it on Monday, April 29.

RVCS Will Present 'Parade of Bands' On Saturday Night

The annual Rondout Valley Central School "Parade of Bands" will be presented Saturday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium under the direction of Lee Harrington. Always a popular musical highlight of the school year, the performance will feature all the bands of the school district in a varied and interesting program with wide appeal. The program will include works by Robert Powers, Paul Herfurth, J. Olivadotti, such as "Viceroy," "Overture," "American Minstrel," and others, performed by Rondout Junior High Prep Band. Selections by the All Elementary Band will include "Tamerlane," Frank Erickson; "American Folk Rhapsody," Clare Grundman; "Sleepers Wake," Bach, arrangement by Chiffarelli, and several others. After the intermission a seven-selection offering will be presented by the Senior High School Concert Band and will include works by Vincent Persichetti, Robert Russell Bennett, Edwin Franco Goldman, such as a "Psalm for Band," "Suite of Old American Dances," "Cheerio," among others.

Concluding the evening will

Lynda Policano to Puerto Rico

Miss Lynda Policano, a member of the Mount Saint Mary College Concert Choir, Newburgh, traveled to Puerto Rico with the choral group during the Easter holiday. Miss Policano, a freshman at Mount Saint Mary, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Policano, 17 Belvedere Street, Kingston. During its stay, the Concert Choir performed jointly with the Glee Club from King's College, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., at the San Jeronimo Hilton Hotel in San Juan. The two choral groups also entertained the American armed forces stationed at Ponce. The two groups toured the island in concert from April 15 to April 21. The Concert Choir is directed by Sister M. Jeanne d'Arc, O.P.

Home-Fashions-Features

Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

We used to have a cook who baked bread. At the time, since I was trying to lose weight, I did not particularly want home-made bread. But Anna was a woman with a mind of her own. She liked to make bread, so she did, a couple of times a week.

Inevitably, when it was time to take the brown loaves out of the oven, the children would gravitate to the kitchen like moths to a flame. "That smells so good!" they would say. Anna, having rubbed each loaf with melted butter and put it on a rack to cool, would make the same reply: "Help yourselves; that's what I made it for, to be eaten." And very likely two young boys would eat a whole loaf on the spot.

I once knew a woman charged with the necessity of bringing up her grandchildren on a hopelessly inadequate income. She made bread, too, because it cost less than baker's bread. But the children were not allowed to touch it until it was three days old. They didn't eat so much of it if it was slightly stale. I always felt sorry for those children. As I feel sorry for all children today who have never smelled the odor of newly baked bread or eaten a slice of it warmly fragrant. And how many such children there are.

Hardly anybody bakes bread today; and unless you live in a city and can find a Polish or Italian or French bakery, the bread you buy is spongy, damp, tasteless. Even the celebrated unsliced tea loaf put out by a special baker, although it is made, so the legend goes, of fresh butter, whole milk, honey, etc., has (in the tiniest type, in an inconspicuous place on the wrapper) the information that calcium propionate is added to prevent spoilage. Homemade bread doesn't spoil; it gets eaten up too fast.

As with bread, so with ice cream. The day of the home freezer, turned by hand, is long since over. Our family gave it up years ago. But there was a time, on Sunday morning, when I mixed the cream and sugar and eggs with strawberries or peaches or just plain vanilla (nothing better); it was packed into the freezer, snuggled down with coarse salt; and by dessert time the ice cream was ripe to eat. Nothing ever tasted better.

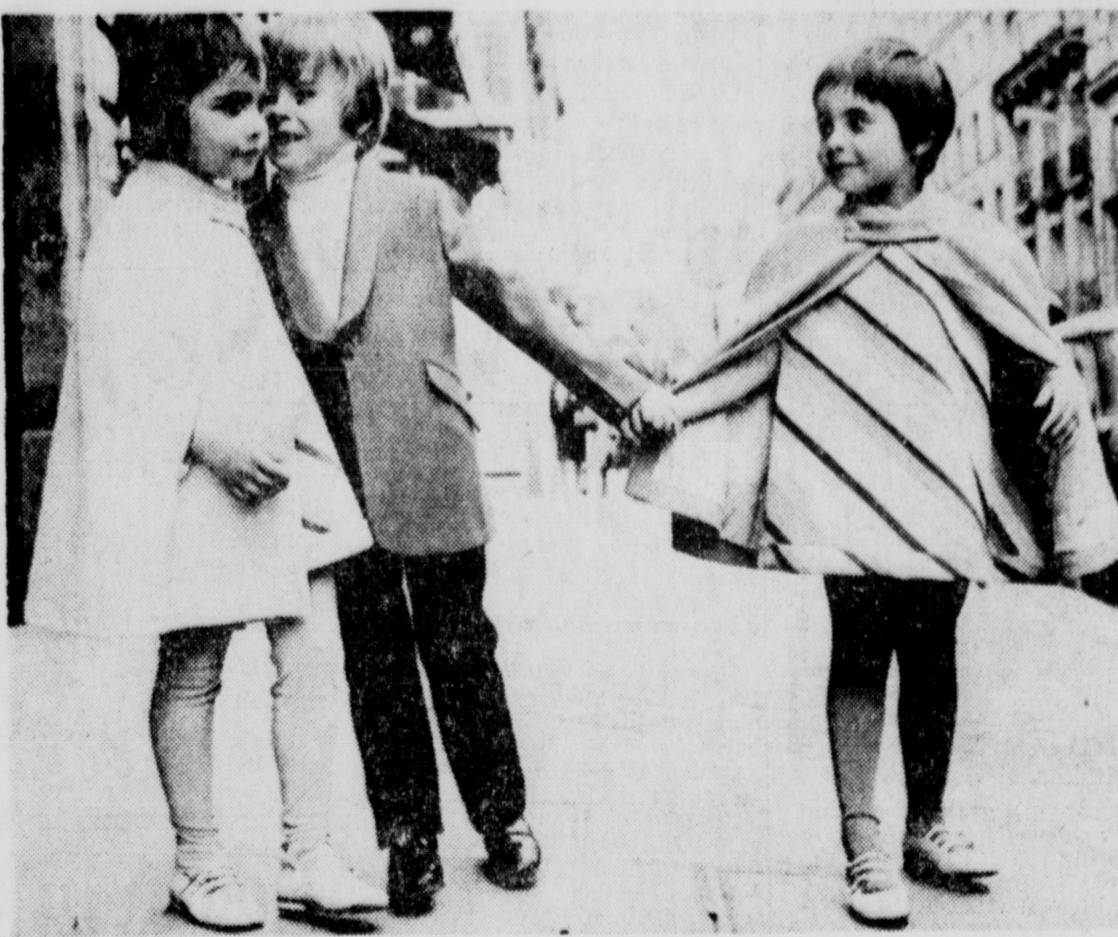

We gave it up because there was so much fussing about the necessity of turning the crank. After a particularly violent argument I got rid of the freezer and we bought our ice cream like everybody else. Yet I still feel sorry for the children who have never tasted homemade ice cream.

So with the child who has never carried the milk can to the barn to have it filled with new milk, or helped harness a horse, or boiled down maple sap and poured the syrup over snow to make snowballs. These, to be sure, are country doings, but a child brought up in a city, as I was, can remember roller skating behind the ice wagon for the bits of ice that had been chipped off the big blocks. Dirty ice, too, no doubt but who cared?

Children have their own pleasures today, machine-made, plastic lined, but once in a while we can regret the older, simpler ways.

Named to Dean's List

Frederic R. Van Deusen, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Herbert Van Deusen of 375 Pearl Street, was named to the dean's list at Northeastern University during the recent marking period. A mathematics major, Van Deusen is in the third year of a five-year course.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
HOW TO GET HOUSE CLEAN WITHOUT DAUGHTER'S HELP

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I am a father who is trying alone to raise two girls, aged 9 and 13. It is the older one who is the problem. She will not keep our small three rooms clean though she knows I cannot afford a housekeeper. She won't even take any care of her own clothes but wears them to school dirty and torn and spotted. What can I do to make her keep herself and our home decent? Is there any hope for her?

ANSWER: Yes, oh yes, all the hope in the world is there for her!

What is the matter with you, for goodness sake? Here you are, you good, brave man, struggling with a task many fathers would have long since walked out on. But because you cannot perform it perfectly, all is lost. What nonsense! How can you possibly work all day to maintain a home for these children—and at the same time remain in it to lead this 13-year-old into performance of house-keeping chores, respect for neatness, etc.?

No child of this age cares about neatness. They're just taking place in them to care about it. It took all the patience I could rally as a woman to get my own 13-year-old daughter to tidy her bedroom! And I failed to do it again and again, despite that patience.

But that's just talk and it will not clean your house, will it? Now for the action that will get it clean for you.

I want you to telephone your Family and Children's Service at 327 Fifth Avenue in your city. ## Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

We used to have a cook who baked bread. At the time, since I was trying to lose weight, I did not particularly want home-made bread. But Anna was a woman with a mind of her own. She liked to make bread, so she did, a couple of times a week.

Inevitably, when it was time to take the brown loaves out of the oven, the children would gravitate to the kitchen like moths to a flame. "That smells so good!" they would say. Anna, having rubbed each loaf with melted butter and put it on a rack to cool, would make the same reply: "Help yourselves; that's what I made it for, to be eaten." And very likely two young boys would eat a whole loaf on the spot.

I once knew a woman charged with the necessity of bringing up her grandchildren on a hopelessly inadequate income. She made bread, too, because it cost less than baker's bread. But the children were not allowed to touch it until it was three days old. They didn't eat so much of it if it was slightly stale. I always felt sorry for those children. As I feel sorry for all children today who have never smelled the odor of newly baked bread or eaten a slice of it warmly fragrant. And how many such children there are.

Hardly anybody bakes bread today; and unless you live in a city and can find a Polish or Italian or French bakery, the bread you buy is spongy, damp, tasteless. Even the celebrated unsliced tea loaf put out by a special baker, although it is made, so the legend goes, of fresh butter, whole milk, honey, etc., has (in the tiniest type, in an inconspicuous place on the wrapper) the information that calcium propionate is added to prevent spoilage. Homemade bread doesn't spoil; it gets eaten up too fast.

As with bread, so with ice cream. The day of the home freezer, turned by hand, is long since over. Our family gave it up years ago. But there was a time, on Sunday morning, when I mixed the cream and sugar and eggs with strawberries or peaches or just plain vanilla (nothing better); it was packed into the freezer, snuggled down with coarse salt; and by desert time the ice cream was ripe to eat. Nothing ever tasted better.

We gave it up because there was so much fussing about the necessity of turning the crank. After a particularly violent argument I got rid of the freezer and we bought our ice cream like everybody else. Yet I still feel sorry for the children who have never tasted homemade ice cream.

So with the child who has never carried the milk can to the barn to have it filled with new milk, or helped harness a horse, or boiled down maple sap and poured the syrup over snow to make snowballs. These, to be sure, are country doings, but a child brought up in a city, as I was, can remember roller skating behind the ice wagon for the bits of ice that had been chipped off the big blocks. Dirty ice, too, no doubt but who cared?

Children have their own pleasures today, machine-made, plastic lined, but once in a while we can regret the older, simpler ways.

The Mature Parent

HOW TO GET HOUSE CLEAN WITHOUT DAUGHTER'S HELP

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I am a father who is trying alone to raise two girls, aged 9 and 13. She is the older one who is the problem. She will not keep our small three rooms clean though she knows I cannot afford a housekeeper. She won't even take any care of her own clothes but wears them to school dirty and torn and spotted. What can I do to make her keep herself and our home decent? Is there any hope for her?

ANSWER: Yes, oh yes, all the hope in the world is there for her!

What IS the matter with you, for goodness sake? Here you are, you good, brave man, struggling with a task many fathers would have long since walked out on. But because you cannot perform it perfectly, all is lost. What nonsense! How can you possibly work all day to maintain a home for these children—and at the same time remain in it to lead this 13-year-old into performance of house-keeping chores, respect for neatness, etc.?

No child of this age cares about neatness. They're just taking place in them to care about it. It took all the patience I could rally as a woman to get my own 13-year-old daughter to tidy her bedroom! And I failed to do it again and again, despite that patience.

But that's just talk and it will not clean your house, will it? Now for the action that will get it clean for you.

I want you to telephone your Family and Children's Service at 327 Fifth Avenue in your city. Demand an appointment with one of its social workers whose obligation it will be to provide you with a part-time housekeeper. Tell her how much money you make, so she'll know whether you can afford to contribute something to this housekeeper's wages or whether you can afford to contribute nothing.

And if you get any social agency run-around, write and tell me so that I can raise the roof at the agency's national headquarters.

I probably won't have to be because this column will appear in your local newspaper where this agency's workers will read it just as you will.

So you're to cheer up. Cheer yourself up with the respect for yourself which I also feel for you as a good, brave man. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Three Score Doubles

Maroon Wins Track Meet

Kingston High's track squad crashed the win column for the first time this season Thursday, winning 12 of 16 events to trounce Our Lady of Lourdes, 77-59, at Dietz Stadium.

Three of Coach Bill Hurley's Maroons scored, with two of the trio also competing in the winning 880 relay.

Barry Hughes, the fine junior sprint prospect captured the 100 and 220 sprints and anchored the 880 relay.

Gene Ballou took the long jump and triple jump and ran the first leg of the 880 relay. Allen Burns picked up his double in the 180 low hurdles and high jump.

Other Kingston winners over a heavy, soggy track included: Bruce Brown in the 440, Fred Kashura, 880; Gary Boice, mile; Paul Berg, shot put, and Kevin Williams, shotput.

Sawyer Netmen Bow in Opener

Roosevelt handed Saugerties a 5-0 defeat in the Sawyer's first tennis match of the season yesterday at Roosevelt.

The Presidents swept all three singles matches with little difficulty and won both doubles matches. Ward Borchardt and Bruce Luhrs of Saugerties ran Butch Trabor and Andrew Lenec out to 7-6 before bowing in the final game.

Roosevelt, which lost to Anderson recently, won the DCSL tennis championship last year with an undefeated record. The Presidents will find the going a little rougher this time around.

Saugerties Jack Welton is still optimistic about improving last year's 1-13 record.

Saugerties (0-1) is scheduled at Catskill this afternoon.

The scores:

Roosevelt 5, Saugerties 0 (Singles)
Butch Trabor (R) d. Ward Borchardt 8-2.
Jody Kagan (R) d. Bruce Luhrs 8-2.
Fred Decker (R) d. Carl Ferrero 8-1.

Those White Sox Are Goshawful ... But

Eddie Stanky Is Holding Up 'Just Great'

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The White Sox still haven't won any baseball games this season, and the slump is keeping Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky in terrific shape.

Stanky spent 20 minutes walking briskly from foul line to foul line in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium Thursday, swinging a leaded bat and mulling over his club's latest loss—a 3-2 toughie against the Twins.

He started his post-game stroll routine last Saturday when the Sox dropped their seventh straight. Now the streak is up to 10 for winless Chicago, and Stanky is still walking.

In Thursday's only other game, the Chicago Cubs whipped Atlanta 5-2 as Ron Sanfey poked a pair of home runs. All other major league teams had the day off.

"How am I holding up?" Stanky said, repeating a newsman's question. "Great."

Then he strolled off to the trainer's room to lie down for several more minutes.

Calls for Meditation
It was the kind of loss that required long meditation. Chicago ace Gary Peters allowed just three hits, but all of them in a Worthington-loaded bases row in the third inning when the Twins got all their runs. "The way we're going," Peters said,

"you make one bad pitch, and it costs you."

And what made it even tougher for Stanky to swallow was that an old teammate from his New York Giant days was the hero for the Twins.

Rubber-armed Al Worthington came out of the bullpen and saved Jim Perry's victory. Worthington loaded the bases with none out in the seventh on two singles and a walk, then struck out Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder, retiring the side.

Came With Two Out
The Twins' three-run rally started with two out when Perry walked on a 3-2 pitch. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva followed with doubles and Harmon Killebrew singled.

The White Sox scored twice in the fifth when Peters, Ken Berry and Ward singled and Davis delivered a sacrifice fly. Chicago left 11 runners on base and one manager in the outfield.

Santo's two homers drove in three runs and supported Ferguson Jenkins' seven-hit effort as the Cubs trimmed the Braves.

Atlanta's only runs came on homers by Bob Tillman and Felipe Alou.

Santo connected with the bases empty in the fourth against Ken Johnson and then sparked a three-run rally with his second shot in the eighth.

Valley Softball Opener Set Sunday

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

The newly organized seven-team Hudson Valley Fastball League, a softball circuit permitting fast pitches, opens its first season with two games Sunday.

Poughkeepsie Red Whites, the 1967 New York State champions, play at Stewart AFB (Newburgh) at 1:30 p.m.

Gallagher's Shell of Beacon takes on Didey's Tavern of Newburgh at Recreation Park in the Hill City at 2 p.m.

Kingston's entry in the league—Ray's Chevrolet—opens their season against Stewart AFB on Saturday night, May 4, at 7:30 at the new softball lighting complex at Block Park.

The other two teams in the league swing into action that day, with Didey's traveling to Green Haven Prison in Dutchess county and Middletown Dino's visiting Beacon.

Secret Leads Ray's
Ron Secreto, who is heading the new Kingston franchise, has not announced his lineup, although the team has worked out a few times.

A district softball tournament is scheduled July 20-21, while the New York State championships are slated Aug. 3-4 and Aug. 10-11.

Donald Hess, the New York State Commissioner of the Amateur Softball Association of America, will attend Green Haven opener, league president Bill McKibbin of Beacon has announced.

Hess has notified Hudson Valley officials that the league has been sanctioned by the ASAA. He also said:

"I honestly believe this will be one of the fastest softball leagues in the state. I will do all I can to see that the league is given attention on both state and national levels."

Chief Umpire
Tom Pietrini of White Plains, umpire in chief for District 10 (which covers the local area) conducted a clinic for several ASA qualified umpires at the last organizational meeting.

The league season closes on Sunday, Aug. 25.

Officers of the league are: Bill McKibbin, Beacon, president; Corbin Drennan, Middletown, vice president; Didey Clavio, Newburgh, treasurer; Tom Moriarity, Poughkeepsie, secretary; Ken Van Sciver, Middletown, publicity director.

Joe Costine of Poughkeepsie is the ASA league commissioner from the district.

Rondout Valley Sweeps Esopus

Rondout Valley swept two matches from Phoenicia in the Ulster County Pistol league, by scores of 1060-941 and 1051-983. One of the scores was a make up round.

Upper Esopus beat the Matchmates 1031-974.

William Morse of Rondout Valley and George Forrest of Upper Esopus were tied for the top score with blasts of 271.

Phoenicia (983)—Wash Wilbur 267; Robert Johansen 250; George Leonard 234; Eric Rickard 232. Rondout Valley (1051)—William Morse 271; Bruce Cyr 265; Mandy Samuels 259; Harold Black 256.

'Must Win' Phase Here for Kingston Kickers

The "must win" phase of the 1967-68 League Division soccer season is at hand for the Kingston Sport Club Kickers.

Starting Sunday's 2:30 p.m. against the troublesome American Czechs of New York City, Coach Bob Graves' booters must win the remainder of the games on the schedule, if they hope to graduate to the Premier Division for the 1968-69 campaign.

Motive for Revenge
The revenge motive is an added incentive for the Kickers who suffered a 2-1 loss to the Czechs in first round play.

The New Yorkers are in top form, having won their last two outings. They have a good sound club with good technique and ability to play attractive soccer.

The Czechs' strength lies in their "borrowed" players from some of the metropolitan city schools. A 1966 All-American, Andy Kich, will lead the visitors.

Unbeaten at home since last May, the Kickers will be at full strength for the Czechs. They realize that a win is a must if they are to keep alive their title hopes.

Mid-Hudson Club Sponsors Show
The Mid-Hudson Kennel Club will hold a match show sweepstakes in German Shepherds and sporting dogs at the Dutchess County fair grounds in Rhinebeck.

Entries will be taken at 10 a.m., with judging to start promptly at 11 a.m. Regular breed classes and obedience judging will start at 1 p.m.

Mrs. George Duffy of Hyde Park is breed chairman. The obedience chairman is Mrs. William Opper of Elizaville.

The Mid-Hudson Kennel Club holds obedience and breed handling classes in Red Hook at Christ Church at 7 p.m. on Mondays. Interested parties may still join.

Praetorius Doubles ... But

Roosevelt Topples Sawyers on Cinders

Lack of depth and the loss of both relays cost the Saugerties High School track team a 76-60 loss to Roosevelt High of Hyde Park on Thursday.

Coach Bud Smith's Sawyers trailed only 8-7 in first places but inability to take either relay was costly. The defeat was the fourth straight without a win for Saugerties.

Roger Praetorius, the Sawyers' all-round athletic star, picked up a double in the 120 high hurdles and 180 low hurdles.

Steve Boone of the winners scored a double in the long jump and triple jump.

Other Saugerties firsts went to Don Moser in the mile, Carl Nickerson, shot put; Joe Row, high jump; Jim Gilbane, two miles; Bill Benham in the pole vault.

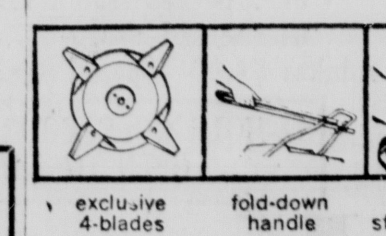

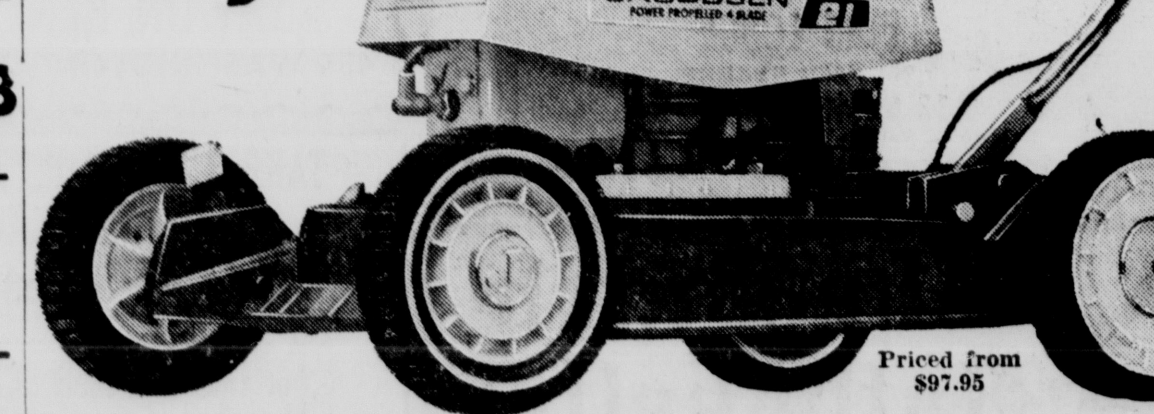

Saugerties was scheduled to host Lourdes today.

"Conforms with U.S.G.A. Rules!" Lifetime Guaranteed! NOW! THE WORLD'S FIRST PERFECT GOLF BALL!

NOW! Take strokes off your score with the world's first lifetime golf ball—the original Space Age ball that CAN'T cut, CAN'T chip, CAN'T go out of round, CAN'T lose its distance... yet still meets every U.S.G.A. specification.

135 EACH

4 for $5 12 for $12

YES, IT'S TRUE! Now, through a miracle of modern organic chemistry, you can drive farther, hit higher, putt truer with DYNALYTE, the fantastic new solid-state golf ball that's been hailed as the most amazing breakthrough development in the game in over 60 years.

GUARANTEED NOT TO CUT...EVER!
DYNALYTE is indestructible! With no core to lose its punch or balance, no old-fashioned winding to stretch, snap, and break, no outer casing to cut or crack, the DYNALYTE golf ball is guaranteed to withstand the most severe abuse in a golf bag. It's a ball that's built to last. It's a ball that's built to win. It's a ball that's built to be a part of your golf bag for the rest of your life.

ONE-PIECE!
... true solid-state golf ball that has no core, no rubber bands, no outer cover... a good ball that complies 100% with every standard and specification set forth by the U.S.G.A. HERE IT IS! The golf ball that generations dreamed of... the one golf ball that is GUARANTEED to stay perfect for a lifetime!

EXTRA BOUNCE MEANS EXTRA YARDS!
You get extra distance with DYNALYTE, too, and you can prove it in 10 seconds flat! Take one DYNALYTE and one old-fashioned golf ball—even the best, highest priced ball you can buy—hold them at eye level, drop them, and watch the bounce! DYNALYTE will bounce an inch to an inch and half HIGHER than any other ball on the market today. Extra bounce means extra yards... hole after hole, all season long!

FORGET HOOKING AND SLICING!
Best of all, you can forget all about hooking and slicing when you start playing with the astonishing new DYNALYTE! DYNALYTE is made round and stays round... no matter how hard and how often you hit it. And DYNALYTE's slow, ballistically stable spin (only one-fourth that of a conventional ball) means a long, straight drive, every time you tee off!

PUTTS LIKE A CUE BALL!
On the green, DYNALYTE will chop strokes off your game by letting you sink putts you used to miss! The secret? DYNALYTE's original solid-state design makes possible a golf ball with the precision roundness and balance of a billiard ball. A conventional "rubber band" ball, after a few drives, develops a built-in wobble that accounts for some of those "hard luck" putts that kiss the rim of the cup but don't drop in. DYNALYTE can't lose its balance or go out of round—even after being flattened in a vise to one-half its normal diameter. DYNALYTE returns to perfect roundness in seconds. That's why DYNALYTE putts straight and true...every time!

TRY IT AT NO RISK!
Yes, DYNALYTE is truly the golf ball of Tomorrow—but you can get it TODAY. A very special price—before they go on sale at full price at golf course "pro" shops—and without risking a penny! Send just $5 for four DYNALYTES, or just $12 for a full dozen. Then use them and enjoy them for a full 30 days at the manufacturer's risk. If you're not completely delighted with these miracle balls, if they don't instantly take strokes off your game, simply return them for an immediate refund, no questions asked! But hurry in or mail or phone your order today. DYNALYTE is the first all new golf ball in 69 years.

The league season closes on Sunday, Aug. 25. Officers of the league are: Bill McKibbin, Beacon, president; Cordan Drennan, Middletown, vice president; Didev Clavio, Newburgh, treasurer; Tom Moriarty, Poughkeepsie, secretary; Ken Van Sciver, Middletown, publicity director.

Joe Costine of Poughkeepsie is the ASA league commissioner from the district.

Rondout Valley Sweeps Esopus

Rondout Valley swept two matches from Esopus in the Ulster County Pistol league, by scores of 1060-941 and 1051-983. One of the scores was a make up round.

Upper Esopus beat the Matchmates 1031-974. William Morse of Rondout Valley and George Forrest of Upper Esopus were tied for the top score with blasts of 271.

The scores:

Phoenicia (983)—Wash Wilbur 267; Robert Johansen 250; George Leonard 234; Eric Rickard 232. Rondout Valley (1051)—William Morse 271; Bruce Cyr 265; Mendy Samuels 259; Harold Black 256.

(R) d. Carl Ferrero and Tim Suernam 8-1.

'Must Win' Phase Here for Kingston Kickers

The "must win" phase of the 1967-68 League Division soccer season is at hand for the Kingston Sport Club Kickers.

Starting with Sunday's 2:30 p.m. against the troublesome American Czechs of New York City, Coach Bob Graves' booters must win the remainder of the games on the schedule, if they hope to graduate to the Premier Division for the 1968-69 campaign.

Under German-American Soccer Association rules, the two top teams of the League Division move up to the Premier loop and the two lowest Premier squads drop back to the League division.

All three contenders are at home Sunday, with league leading White Plains hosting Poughkeepsie and Bavarian greeting Dalmatinac.

Motive for Revenge

The revenge motive is an added incentive for the Kickers who suffered a 2-1 loss to the Czechs in first round play. The New Yorkers are in top form, having won their last two outings. They have a good sound club with good technique and ability to play attractive soccer.

The Czechs' strength lies in their "borrowed" players from some of the metropolitan city schools. A 1966 All-American, Andy Kich, will lead the visitors.

Unbeaten at home since last May, the Kickers will be at full strength for the Czechs. They realize that a win is a must if they are to keep alive their title hopes.

Mid-Hudson Club Sponsors Show

The Mid-Hudson Kennel Club will hold a match show sweepstakes in German Shepherds and sporting dogs at the Dutchess County fair grounds in Rhinebeck.

Entries will be taken at 10 a.m., with judging to start promptly at 11 a.m. Regular breed classes and obedience judging will start at 1 p.m.

Mrs. George Duffy of Hyde Park is breed chairman. The obedience chairman is Mrs. William Opper of Elizaville.

The Mid-Hudson Kennel Club holds obedience and breed handling classes in Red Hook at Christ Church at 7 p.m. on Mondays. Interested parties may still join.

Praetorius Doubles ... But

Roosevelt Topples Sawyers on Cinders

Lack of depth and the loss of both relays cost the Saugerties High School track team a 76-60 loss to Roosevelt High of Hyde Park in a Sunday match.

Coach Bud Smith's Sawyers trailed only 8-7 in first places but inability to take either relay was costly. The defeat was the fourth straight without a win for Saugerties.

Roger Praetorius, the Sawyers' all-round athletic star, picked up a double in the 120 high hurdles and 180 low hurdles.

Other Saugerties firsts went to: Don Moser in the mile, Carl Nickerson, shot put; Joe Row, high jump; Jim Gilbane, two miles; Bill Benham in the pole vault.

Saugerties was scheduled to host Lourdes today.

"Conforms with U.S.G.A. Rules!" Lifetime Guaranteed! NOW! THE WORLD'S FIRST PERFECT GOLF BALL!

NOW! Take strokes off your score with the world's first lifetime golf ball—the original Space Age ball that CAN'T cut, CAN'T chip, CAN'T go out of round, CAN'T lose its distance... yet still meets every U.S.G.A. specification.

4 for $5 12 for $12

YES, IT'S TRUE! Now, through a miracle of modern organic chemistry, you can drive farther, hit straighter, putt truer with DYNALYTE, the fantastic new solid-state golf ball that's been hailed as the most amazing breakthrough development in the game in over 60 years!

GUARANTEED NOT TO CUT... EVER!
DYNALYTE is indestructible! With no core to lose its punch or balance, no old-fashioned windings to stretch, snap, and break, no outer casing to cut or crack, the DYNALYTE golf ball is guaranteed in writing to last a lifetime! Mash it in a vise... hack it with an axe... even attack it with a sledge hammer and cold chisel... you simply cannot hurt it! That's why every DYNALYTE sold is guaranteed not to cut, crack or lose its shape... or we'll replace it at our expense.

EXTRA BOUNCE MEANS EXTRA YARDS!
You get extra distance with DYNALYTE, too, and you can prove it in 10 seconds flat! Take one DYNALYTE and one old-fashioned golf ball—even the best, highest priced ball you can buy—hold them at eye level, drop them, and watch the bounce! DYNALYTE will bounce an inch to an inch and half HIGHER than any other ball on the market today. Extra bounce means extra yards... hole after hole, all season long!

FORGET HOOPING AND SLICING!
Best of all, you can forget all about hooking and slicing when you start playing with the astonishing new DYNALYTE! DYNALYTE is made round and stays round... no matter how hard and how often you hit it. And DYNALYTE'S slow, ballistically stable spin (only one-fourth that of a conventional ball) means a long, straight drive, every time you tee off!

PUTTS LIKE A CUE BALL!
On the green, DYNALYTE will chop strokes off your game by letting you sink putts you used to miss! The secret? DYNALYTE'S original solid-state design makes possible a golf ball with the precision roundness and balance of a billiard ball. A conventional "rubber band" ball, after a few drives, develops a built-in wobble that accounts for some of those "hard luck" putts that kiss the rim of the cup but don't drop in. DYNALYTE can't lose its balance or go out of round—even after being flattened in a vise to one-half its normal diameter, DYNALYTE returns to perfect roundness in seconds. That's why DYNALYTE putts straight and true... every time!

TRY IT AT NO RISK!
Yes, DYNALYTE is truly the golf ball of Tomorrow—but you can get it TODAY, at a very special price—before they go on sale at full price at golf course "pro" shops—and without risking a penny! Send just $5 for four DYNALYTES, or just $12 for a full dozen. Then use them and enjoy them for a full 30 days at the manufacturer's risk. If you're not completely delighted with these miracle balls, if they don't instantly take strokes off your game, simply return them for an immediate refund, no questions asked! But hurry in or mail or phone your order today. DYNALYTE is the first all new golf ball in 69 years.

Cardinal King--New Slutsky Winner

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Ben Slutsky has come up with another winner in harness racing.

Cardinal King, a 5-year-old from New Zealand, is the latest likely champion for the master of Nevele Acres at Ellenville, N.Y. He already owns Nevele

Pride, the Harness Horse of the Year for 1967, for whom he recently turned down an offer of $2 million. Cardinal King won the $50,000

International Pace at Yonkers Raceway in impressive style Thursday night and made Slutsky very happy at the ceremonies in the winner's circle.

Cardinal King, for whom Slutsky paid $40,000 early this year, displayed an explosive finish as he drew out in the stretch and beat the favored First Lee of Australia by 1 1/4 lengths.

"I knew I would win when we drew even with First Lee with about 50 yards left," driver Billy Meyer said afterwards. "This is a good horse with a lot of potential."

Cardinal King raced as an entry with the aged 12-year-old Cardigan Bay of New Zealand, harness racing's top winner with $950,571. The entry went off the second choice at 6-5 with the crowd of 23,686. First Lee was the 4-5 favorite at post time.

Cardigan Outclassed

Cardigan Bay, with Stanley Dancer in the sulky, finished next to last in the seven-horse field. But Cardigan Bay, who dropped out of contention with one-quarter mile left, played a prominent part in First Lee's defeat.

For virtually one-half mile, the second time around in the 1 1/2 mile race, Dancer kept Cardigan Bay pushing First Lee virtually neck and neck.

"The old boy wanted to take the lead," Dancer said. "I had a tough time holding him side by side with First Lee."

Dancer's driving tactics took a lot out of First Lee as Kevin Robinson, who reined the Australian favorite, acknowledged later.

"That fast first quarter by Golden Blend played its part, too," Robinson said. He referred to the 29 2/5 opening quarter reeled off by the Canadian pacer to take the lead from First Lee. Golden Blend wound up last.

Cardinal King, who went the route in 3:06 and paid $4.60, now has won both his American starts and earned $37,500 plus $23,000 in New Zealand before coming to the United States.

Southern Song, made it a 1-2-3 finish for the Anzac horses by finishing third. Honest Story and Song Cycle, the two U.S. entries, came in fourth and fifth.

Meet Again Thursday

Cardinal King and First Lee likely will meet again next Thursday in the $50,000 Good Time Pace, the second leg of Yonkers' $150,000 International series. The $50,000 National Championship Pace on May 9 is the final leg in the series.

In races featured Thursday at other tracks in New York State: Batavia Downs — Marcon Norman ($3,600), a 3-year-old bay, defeated Konstantinos by nearly a length and won the $1,600 conditioned pace in 2:12 4/5. Blue Brother was third in the mile contest, raced on a sloppy track.

Saratoga Raceway — the $750 pace was won by Stardust Mist ($5.80) in 2:09 3/5. Greenriver Mel was three-quarters of a length back, trailed by third-place Urgent CSEA.

Hawks Still Kicking In Hockey Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Black Hawks still are alive in the Stanley Cup playoffs because they practiced what Coach Billy Reay preached. "Montreal can be beaten," Reay had predicted. "All you've got to do is start with great goaltending and then play your best for 60 minutes."

Dennis DeJordy provided the goaltending heroics and Bobby Hull, who is very much Chicago's best, scored the goals as the Hawks edged the Canadiens 2-1 Wednesday night. Montreal still leads the National Hockey League Eastern Division finals three games to one with the next contest set for Montreal and national television Sunday afternoon.

Minnesota took a 2-1 lead over St. Louis in their best-of-7 West Division finals by trouncing the Blues 5-1 as Bill Goldsworthy scored two goals and added two assists.

Give Assist

Reay himself had a hand in Chicago's triumph, which prevented the Canadiens from repeating their four-game sweep of Boston in the opening round. Pat Stapleton.

He moved Chico Maki, normally a right wing, to center specifically to check Montreal's Jean Beliveau, who had scored five goals in the first three games of the series.

"Maki takes a lot of pride in his checking," Reay said, after Beliveau had been shut out.

Hull opened the scoring midway through the first period. Henri Richard knotted it for Montreal early in the second period, poking in a rebound nine seconds after coming out of the penalty box.

In Middle Period

Hull's game-winning came at 6:50 of the middle period with teammate Stan Mikita in the penalty box. He fired a wrist shot past goalie Rogatien Vachon after taking a pass from Pat Stapleton.

Maroon Netmen Win, 5-0

Kingston High School's tennis squad began its quest for the DUSO championship and an undefeated season with a 5-0 blanking of Liberty High last night.

With number one singles player Dave Roberts out of town, the rest of the squad moved up a notch. Pete Zeeh, Steve Lonergan and Jim Boyd all turned in easy single wins. Zeeh and Lonergan teamed for a double victory and Boyd teamed with Dave Goldman for the final victory.

Kingston, now 1-0, is out to end Middletown High's string of 36 wins. Coach John Hunter thinks he has possibly three of the top five players in the league this year. He is extremely optimistic about the team's chances. Maroon's netmen were 4-4 last year.

The score:

(SINGLES)

Bill Zeeh (K) d. Dean Silberman 8-3.

Steve Lonergan (K) d. Lee Miller 8-1.

Jim Boyd d. Jim Grossinger 8-3.

(DOUBLES)

Bill Zeeh and Steve Lonergan defeated Dean Silberman and Jim Grossinger 8-1.

Jim Boyd and Dave Goldman defeated Sackier and Salzman 8-1.

Mercer Hurls 2-Hitter

Eddie Mercer pitched 2-hit ball and Alan Cocks collected three hits and drove in two runs, as Ontario Central trounced Wallkill High, 6 to 1, in a UCAL contest Thursday at Wallkill.

Mercer, a sophomore, lost his own shutout as Coach Larry Karas' Indians went over the 300 mark on a 3-2 record (2-1 in UCAL play).

First, he walked two batters, then fanned the next. The fourth batter tapped back to Mercer who threw wildly past third base in an effort to head off the lead runner. He was untouchable in the other innings.

John Stekin and Mickey Bush drilled RBI singles for Ontario after Cocks singled and Ted Weber was safe on an infield error.

Cocks' single drove in Mercer and John Stothoff in the fourth and Weber chased Cocks around with another singleton. Stothoff's sacrifice fly scored Mike Patrick with the Indians' final tally in the fifth inning. Stothoff and Weber each had two singles.

The Indians play a UCAL contest at New Paltz Monday:

Federation Clears Area History Books

History books in Ulster County school systems are not the brand that omit references to the second amendment in the United States constitution, a committee named by the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County, has announced.

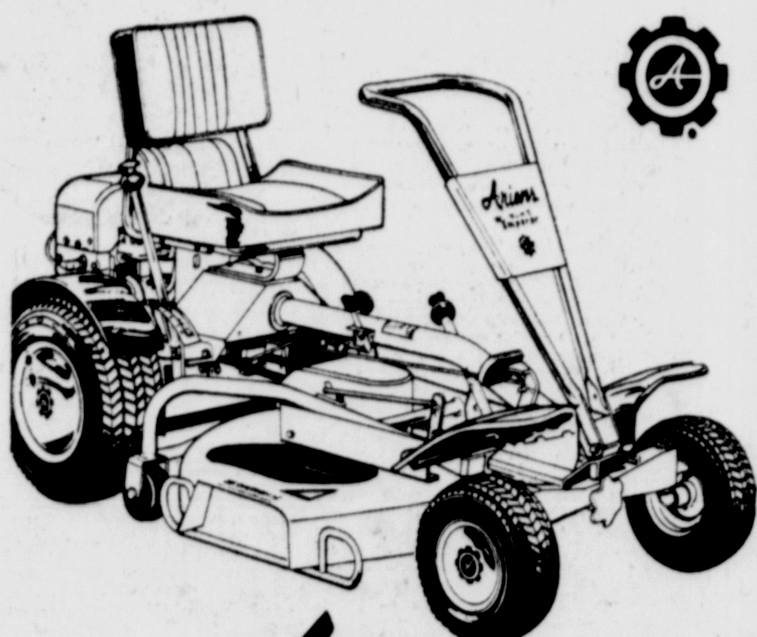

Carlton B. King of Mt. Marion, chairman of the committee which conducted an exhaustive investigation of history books, said none of the editions under fire were among those used in county curricula.

Federation president William J. Meyer hailed the report and thanked the committee for its excellent work and school authorities who cooperated in the project.

"It was a gratifying experience to the delegates at our meeting to hear this report," said Meyer. "Of late, good news seems hard to come by."

An editorial in the New York State Conservation Council's official publication listed several history books in use throughout the country which inadvertently or deliberately omitted any reference to the second amendment in their texts.

The Council had urged sportsmen's groups in the state to investigate history books used in local school systems and protest the presence of any of the books under fire.

Associated Press Sports Writer
YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Ben Slutsky has come up with another winner in harness racing.

Cardinal King, a 5-year-old Pride, the Harness Horse of the Year for 1967, for whom he recently turned down an offer of $2 million.

Cardinal King won the $50,000

International Pace at Yonkers Thursday night and made Slutsky very happy at the ceremonies in the winner's circle.

Cardinal King, for whom Slutsky paid $40,000 early this year, displayed an explosive finish as he drew out in the stretch and beat the favored First Lee of Australia by 1 1/2 lengths.

"I knew I would win when we drew even with First Lee with about 50 yards left," driver Billy Meyer said afterwards. "This is a good horse with a lot of potential."

Cardinal King raced as an entry in the aged 12-year-old harness racing's top winner with $950,571. The entry went off the second choice at 6-5 with the crowd of 23,686. First Lee was the 4-5 favorite at post time.

Cardigan Outclassed
Dancer in the sulky, finished next to last in the seven-horse field. But Cardigan Bay, who dropped out of contention with one-quarter mile left, played a prominent part in First Lee's defeat.

For virtually one-half mile, the second time around in the 1 1/2 mile race, Dancer kept Cardigan Bay pushing First Lee virtually neck and neck.

"The old boy wanted to take the lead," Dancer said. "I had a tough time holding him side by side with First Lee."

Dancer's driving tactics took a lot out of First Lee as Kevin Robinson, who reined the Australian favorite, acknowledged later.

"That first quarter by Thursday in the $50,000 Good Time Pace, the second leg of Yonkers' $150,000 International series. The $50,000 National Championship Pace on May 9 is the final leg in the series."

In races featured Thursday at other tracks in New York State: Batavia Downs — Marcon Norman ($2,600), a 3-year-old bay, defeated Konstantinos by nearly a length and won the $1,500 conditioned pace in 2:12 4/5.

Blue Brother was third in the mile contest, raced on a sloppy track.

Saratoga Raceway — the $750 pace was won by Stardust Mist ($5,800) in 2:09 3/5. Greenriver Mel was three-quarters of a length back, trailed by third-place Urgent CSEA.

Cardinal King and First Lee likely will meet again next Thursday in the $50,000 Good Time Pace.

Cardigan Bay, who went the route in 3:06 and paid $4.60, now has won both his American starts and earned $37,500 plus $23,000 in New Zealand before coming to the United States.

Southern Song, made it a 1-2-3 finish for the Anzac horses by finishing third. Honest Story and Song Cycle, the two U.S. entries, came in fourth and fifth.

Maroon Netmen Win, 5-0

Kingston High School's tennis squad began its quest for the DUSO championship and an undefeated season with a 5-0 blanking of Liberty High last night.

With number one singles player Dave Roberts out of town, the rest of the squad moved up a notch. Pete Zeeh, Steve Lonergan and Jim Boyd all turned in easy single wins. Zeeh and Lonergan teamed for a double victory and Boyd teamed with Dave Goldman for the final victory.

Kingston, now 1-0, is out to end Middletown High's string of 36 wins. Coach John Hunter thinks he has possibly three of the top five players in the league this year. He is extremely optimistic about the team's chances. Maroon's netmen were 4-4 last year.

Kingston plays Monticello at Ellenville this afternoon.

The score:

(SINGLES)
Bill Zeeh (K) d. Dean Silberman 8-3.

Steve Lonergan (K) d. Lee Miller 8-1.

Jim Boyd d. Jim Grossinger 8-3.

(DOUBLES)
Bill Zeeh and Steve Lonergan defeated Dean Silberman and Jim Grossinger 8-1.

Jim Boyd and Dave Goldman defeated Sackler and Salzman 8-1.

Indian Tossers Rip Wallkill Nine, 6-1

Eddie Mercer pitched 2-hit ball and Alan Cocks collected three hits and drove in two runs, as Ontario Central trounced Wallkill High, 6 to 1, in a UVAL contest Thursday at Wallkill.

Mercer, a sophomore, lost his own shutout as Coach Larry Karas' Indians went over the 500 mark on a 3-2 batter (2-1 in UVAL play).

First, he walked two batters, then fanned the next. The fourth batter tapped back to Mercer who threw wildly past third base in an effort to head off the lead runner. He was untouchable in the other innings.

John Steekin and Mickey Bush drilled RBI singles for Ontario after Cocks singled and Ted Weber was safe on an infield error.

Cocks' single drove in Mercer and John Stoothoff in the fourth and Weber chased Cocks around with another singleton. Stoothoff's sacrifice fly scored Mike Patrick with the Indians' final tally in the fifth inning. Stoothoff and Weber each had two singles.

The Indians play a UVAL contest at New Paltz Monday.

Big Red Likes Pete Watzka

Pete Watzka, the former Kingston High All-DUSO baseball player, is now wearing the baseball togs of the Big Red, Cornell University.

Watzka, 5-foot-11½ and 175 pounds, has won the starting third sacker's job for the Cornell freshman team and is leading the team in batting with a .389 average.

With two doubles and five singles in 18 trips to the plate, Watzka, according to coach Bob Valesente, "is an important cog in the club and has been one of the big factors in our 5-0 record."

"Pete's been outstanding for us. He does an excellent job, and is a strong leader on the field in his own, quiet way. He's hit the ball well and been superb on defense," the coach said.

Watzka had a four-game hitting streak going and carried a .500 average into the last game against Syracuse.

He was held hitless, but

PETE WATZKA
(In Basketball Uniform)

drove a hard line drive down the third base line that was stopped and the throw to get him was wide, so he made it safely on an error.

"With his arm, he's been able to come up with some fine plays and throw men out that normally would be safe," Valesente said.

Watzka's record shows no strikeouts in the five games, so he must be hitting the ball. The coach claims, "Pete's hitting has been more than satisfactory. In general, he's been outstanding and we're very happy to have him aboard."

"If he progresses normally," the coach continued, "then he'll be a fine varsity prospect. If he continues along the same lines, makes the expected improvement then I expect he will be a great varsity asset."

"Right now, though, he can only play frosh ball, and he looks impressive. I expect he will keep playing heads up baseball for us, and then continue that style on the varsity next year," Valesente concluded.

FRANK MISARTI

Big Red Likes Pete Watzka

Pete Watzka, the former Kingston High All-DUSO baseball player, is now wearing the baseball togs of the Big Red, Cornell University.

Watzka, 5-foot-11½ and 175 pounds, has won the starting third sacker's job for the Cornell frosh team and is leading the team in batting with a .389 average.

With two doubles and five singles in 18 trips to the plate, Watzka, according to coach Bob Valesene, "is an important cog in the club and has been one of the big factors in our 5-0 record."

"Pete's been outstanding for us. He does an excellent job, and is a strong leader on the field in his own, quiet way. He's hit the ball well and been superb on defense," the coach said.

Watzka had a four-game hitting streak going and carried a .500 average into the last game against Syracuse.

He was held hitless, but

PETE WATZKA
(In Basketball Uniform)
drove a hard line drive down the third base line that was stopped and the throw to get him was wide, so he made it safely on an error.

"With his arm, he's been able to come up with some fine plays and throw men out that normally would be safe," Valesene said.

Watzka's record shows no strikeouts in the five games, so he must be hitting the ball. The coach claims, "Pete's hitting has been more than satisfactory. In general, he's been outstanding and we're very happy to have him aboard."

"If he progresses normally," the coach continued, "Then he'll be a fine varsity prospect. If he continues along the same lines, makes the expected improvement then I expect he will be a great varsity asset."

"Right now, though, he can only play frosh ball, and he looks impressive. I expect he will keep playing heads up baseball for us, and then continue that style on the varsity next year," Valesene concluded.

Name Frank Misarti Sawyerkill Golf Pro

Sawyerkill Country Club of Saugerties has announced the appointment of Frank Misarti of White Plains as its first golf professional.

A Westchester county product Misarti is widely known in state golf circles and learned his trade under some of the finest professionals in the game.

"We are happy to welcome Frank Misarti to our organization," said Attorney Morris Rosenberg of Saugerties, president of the corporation which is building the nine-hole course at Saugerties. "He was selected after several candidates were screened and we are satisfied he will do a fine job for our charter membership," Rosenberg added.

The 37-year-old Misarti launched his professional career as a shop boy for Frank Turnesa, head pro at Metropolis County Club at White Plains.

Misarti was assistant pro at five clubs and received his first assignment as head pro in 1954 at the Elmbrook Country Club, Upper Montclair, N.J.

FRANK MISARTI

As assistant pro, Misarti was associated with the following clubs and professionals:

Century Club, White Plains, 1950, Willie Goggin, head pro.

Upper Montclair CC, Upper Montclair, N.J., 1951-52, Willie Goggin, head pro.

Fenway Country Club, Scarsdale, 1955, Herman Barron, head pro.

Norbeck Country Club, Norbeck, Md., 1956, Henry Girardi, head pro.

Ridgeway Country Club, White Plains, 1957-59, Pat Circelli, head pro.

Elmbrook Country Club, Upper Montclair, N.J., 1954.

White Roe Country Club, Livingston Manor, 1960-61.

Green Mansions Golf Course, Warrensburg, N.Y., 1966-67.

Misarti is a member of the Northeastern New York Golf Association.

Residents of Tillson Estates who use a private water system owned by John DeLora Sr. are presently circulating a petition objecting to the village of Rosendale's proposed plan to tap the same source of water they employ.

According to a March report of Mayor Joseph Reid, negotiations were undertaken "to purchase a new source of water in Tillson from A. J. Snyder."

On March 19, the mayor reported that the village board is awaiting approval of the supply by the State Water Resources Commission.

The source near the Snyder Cement works is reportedly adjacent to the Tillson Estates development of which DeLora is the developer and is the same as that used by the estate's water users.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

To the Sheriff of the County of Ulster: William B. Martin

Whereas, a Trial Term of Supreme Court and Jail Delivery is to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, on Wednesday the 1st day of May, 1968.

We command you, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 222-a of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in that case made and provided:

FIRST: That you summon the several persons who shall have been drawn in said County of Ulster, pursuant to law, to serve as Trial Jurors at the said Court to appear thereat.

SECOND: That you bring before the said Court all prisoners then being in the Jail of said County, together with all process and proceedings in any such case.

THIRD: That you make Proclamation, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-c of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognition or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all persons at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognitions, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, on the first day of its sitting.

WITNESSES, Hon. Edward S. Conway, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, this 15th day of April, in the year one thousand nine hundred and sixty-eight.

JOSEPH P. TORRACA, District Attorney of the County of Ulster

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make Proclamation that a term of Supreme Court of the County of Ulster shall be held at the Court House in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, the 1st day of May, 1968, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be present, and to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognition, or otherwise are required to appear thereat, and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who may have taken any recognition, or witness are required to return such recognitions, inquisitions and examinations on to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to their office pertain.

Philadelphian, has taken the initial instrument out of the misty Scottish highlands and introduced it to the funky jazz dens of Detroit, Washington, Pittsburgh and his hometown.

"I have a sort of a spiritual thing about this instrument," says Harley.

The thing started when Harley watched the televised coverage of President Kennedy's funeral procession and heard the funeral dirge of the Black Watch pipers.

No Substitute
"I picked up the saxophone and tried to make it sound like a bagpipe," he says. "I couldn't do it."

He bought a set of pipes for $120 in a pawnshop. But 15 years of playing the tenor saxophone and virtually every other reed instrument hadn't prepared him for his first struggles with the primitive, balky bagpipes.

"I went on instinct for about two months," he says. "I learned to tune it and play a scale. Then I took it to my music teacher."

The pipes were too loud, so Harley silenced one of the three drones that provide the continuous braing sound.

1. Election of Trustees as follows: (a) One (1) trustee for three years in place of J. Richard Shiel, which term will expire June 30, 1971.

(b) One (1) trustee for three years in place of Herbert Steiner, which term will expire June 30, 1971.

(c) One (1) trustee for three years in place of Edward Hill, which term will expire June 30, 1971.

2. Voting upon the adoption of the proposed budget.

3. Voting upon the following resolution: "RESOLVED, that the Board of Education of Central School District No. 1 of the Towns of Marlborough, Rochester, Rosendale and Wawarsing, Ulster County, New York, is hereby authorized and directed to purchase four (4) school buses and expend thereon for a sum not exceeding $41,000.00 as follows:

2-67 passenger school buses at a cost not to exceed $18,000.00 each

2-16 passenger carry-all school buses at a cost not to exceed $3,500.00 each which said total sum of $41,000.00, or so much thereof as may be necessary shall be raised by tax on the taxable property of the School District to be collected in annual installments, and to be obligated by the District therefor in accordance with the Education Law and the Local Finance Law of the State of New York."

4. For the purpose of transacting such other business as may legally come before the meeting.

The petition nominating the candidates to run for the above office and term shall be signed by at least twenty-five (25) qualified voters of the above mentioned Central School District of the Towns of Marlborough, Rochester, Rosendale and Wawarsing, Ulster County, New York, and must be filed with Harold B. Rich, the undersigned Clerk, on or before Tuesday, April 23, 1968. Such petitions shall state the name and residences of the candidates, the office office for which the candidate is nominated by setting forth the length of the term of office and the name of the last incumbent.

Notice is also given that a copy of the statement of the amount of money which will be required for the ensuing year for school purposes, exclusive of public moneys, may be obtained by any taxpayer in said District at the meeting, or immediately preceding the annual meeting, except Saturday, Sunday or a holiday at each of the following schools in which school is maintained during the hours designated:

Junior-Senior High School, Kyserville Road, Kyserville, New York
between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 3:30 P. M. (D.S.T.)
Dated, April 10, 1968.

HAROLD B. RICH, Clerk of Central School District No. 1

Then he had to work up the lung power to keep the bag full of air. "I lift weights every day—lug on the edge of my bed and like that—to keep my muscles strong," he says. "Before, my mind was ready, but not my body. Now my body is up with it. You dig?"

He attained a measure of ability, rounded up pianist Oliver Collins, drummer Billy Abner and bassist James Glenn and tried out the pipes before an audience.

Everybody Laughed
"Everybody laughed when I pulled them out. The cat's going crazy. He's going insane."

"At first they thought it was a gimmick. But it's just another instrument," he says.

"The bagpipes are very Oriental. They started out in Egypt and were in China and Asia before getting to Scotland and Ireland."

"And all your groups today are dealing from the Far East." Despite initial skepticism, Harley says audiences can hear his bagpipes and the sensation of a throbbing in their brains when the oboe-like chanter reaches into its upper range.

"Now people feel very good about my music," he says. "Outa sight, man. The young dig it more than the old. Their minds are more flexible."

So far Harley's made two record albums, "Bagpipe Blues" and "Scotch and Soul," for Atlantic, and traveled to Europe—although he hasn't hit Scotland or Ireland. Ahead is a four-month USO tour through the Pacific.

Skirly Bagpipes Enter Jazz Scene

By G. DAVID WALLACE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For centuries bagpipes skirted. Then Rufus Harley got his hands on a set in a New York pawnshop. Now they swing.

Cite Objection To Rosendale's Water Plan

Residents of Tillson Estates who use a private water system owned by John DeLora Sr. are presently circulating a petition objecting to the village of Rosendale's proposed plan to tap the same source of water they employ.

According to a March report of Mayor Joseph Reid, negotiations were undertaken "to purchase a new source of water in Tillson from A. J. Snyder."

On March 19, the mayor reported that the village board is awaiting approval of the supply by the State Water Resources Commission.

The source near the Snyder Cement works is reportedly adjacent to the Tillson Estates development of which DeLora is the developer and is the same as that used by the estate's water users.

Philadelphia, has taken the ancient instrument out of the misty Scottish highlands and introduced it to the funky jazz dens of Detroit, Washington, Pittsburgh and his hometown.

"I have a sort of a spiritual thing about this instrument," says Harley.

The thing started when Harley watched the televised coverage of President Kennedy's funeral procession and heard the funeral dirge of the Black Watch pipers.

No Substitute
"I picked up the saxophone and tried to make it sound like a bagpipe," he says. "I couldn't do it."

He bought a set of pipes for $120 in a pawnshop. But 15 years of playing the tenor saxophone and virtually every other reed instrument hadn't prepared him for his first struggles with the primitive, balky bagpipes.

"I went on instinct for about two months," he says. "I learned to tune it and play a scale. Then I took it to my music teacher."

The pipes were too loud, so Harley silenced one of the three drones that provide the continuous braang sound.

Then he had to work up the lung power to keep the bag full of air. "It lifts weights every day—tug on the edge of my bed and like that—to keep my muscles strong," he says. "Before, my mind was ready, but not my body. Now my body is up with it. You dig?"

He attained a measure of ability, rounded up pianist Oliver Collins, drummer Billy Abner and bassist James Glenn and tried out the pipes before an audience.

Everybody Laughed
"Everybody laughed when I pulled them out. The cat's going crazy. He's going insane. At first they thought it was a gimmick. But it's just another instrument."

"The bagpipes are very Oriental. They started out in Egypt and were in China and Asia before getting to Scotland and Ireland."

"And all your groups today are dealing from the Far East." Despite initial skepticism, Harley says audiences ken his bagpipes and the sensation of a throbbing in their brains when the oboe-like chanter reaches into its upper range.

"Now people feel very good about my music," he says. "Outa sight, man. The young dig it more than the old. Their minds are more flexible."

So far Harley's made two record albums, "Bagpipe Blues" and "Scotch and Soul," for Atlantic, and traveled to Europe—although he hasn't hit Scotland or Ireland. Ahead is a four-month USO tour through the Pacific.

Dear Abby

Hairpiece Is Confusing

By ABIGAIL VN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I never cared much for wigs on men, but lately I have been changing my mind. Altho my husband is only in his early forties, he's been bald for some time. Not only that, but his head comes to a decided point on top. Lately his head has taken on a "polished" look, which makes the point on top all the more conspicuous. I am so tired of people asking me, "What happened to your husband's head?"

Wouldn't a wig be less conspicuous? If I say to get one, he says he'll get one.

Another question: If my husband does decide to get a wig, will he have to have new passport pictures taken in the wig? And where it says "Hair," should he put down "BALD" or the color of the wig? Thank you kindly.

MRS. F. IN LAS VEGAS

DEAR MRS. F.: If your husband would be happier with a "wig," he should certainly get one. And since the hairpiece will change his appearance considerably, if he plans to wear it constantly, he should update his passport pictures. And where it says "Hair," he should put down the color of his "wig." (P.S. I hope your husband doesn't "flip his wig" abroad or he may have trouble getting back in the country.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow of less than one year. My income has dropped from $1,900 a month to $1,500 a month, so I have to watch my pennies now.

I have one son. He is married and goes to college. He and his wife have been coming to my home for Sunday dinner regularly, and they bring their laundry to do in my washing machine. About a month ago, I told them that due to my reduced circumstances I was going to charge them 25 cents a load for the use of my facilities. My son said, "Thank you, Mother, but we will do our laundry elsewhere."

Abby, where can they get their laundry done as cheap as here? And as long as they pay to get it done, why not give me the money? I am very hurt. In fact, I am sick over it because we had a wonderful relationship before this happened. They still come to me for Sunday dinners, but they refuse to bring their laundry. Was I right or wrong in asking for 25 cents a load?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Unless the few dollars involved would have worked a wonder on you, you'd be wiser to have skipped it. Apologize for pinching pennies and hope that everything comes out in the wash.

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather well-to-do uncle who is in his late seventies now. About 12 years ago, this uncle asked me to die because I'm not, but shouldn't I know where to find his valuable papers and so on in case of his death? I didn't sign anything and am wondering if he has changed his mind and asked somebody else or what. How should I go about getting this information?

UNINFORMED: If I don't want him to get the idea that I am waiting for him to die because I'm not, but shouldn't I know where to find his valuable papers and so on in case of his death? I didn't sign anything and am wondering if he has changed his mind and asked somebody else or what. How should I go about getting this information?

Indiscretion at the bridge table should be punished, but once in awhile it turns out to be highly profitable. Board eight of the nationwide charity game is a case in point.

East's one spade overall is a good example of indiscretion. With five high card points and a rather poor suit, East should pass quietly and let his opponents bid along. Left to themselves, North and South would play the hand somewhere in hearts—possibly in game, more probably at two or three. West would probably open the five of clubs and South would make 10 tricks. The bidding in the box is what took place when one East player did stick in a spade overcall. South was crowded into a two heart bid and from then on there was no stopping below game.

East won the spade opening with his jack and went over

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, April 27, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be willing to bargain. New moon position emphasizes money, possessions, ability to get the most for your efforts. CANCER-born individual.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New moon in your sign stresses appearance, charm, personality. You draw to you what you need. Make use of opportunity. Take initiative. Be independent in thought, action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Catch up on work which may have been neglected. You need time for quiet thoughts. Strengthen personal philosophy. Take time to crystallize your thoughts, ideas and goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your circle of friends grows wide, perhaps due to fraternal organization. Welcome chance to express interests, views. Today accents fulfillment of hopes and wishes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Communicate with those in position to advance your aims, aspirations. Build on solid base at home. New moon position coincides with chance to make contact which elevates your position.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on travel, writing, publishing. Your ideals come closer to realities. Don't feel you must find perfection. Means work with material at hand. Relative is due to get in touch.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): May be necessary to organize new ways of saving. Mate or partner expresses willingness to co-operate. But it is your responsibility to spell out methods. Do so to best of your ability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take cue from mate or partner. Co-operate. Ask questions later.

Dear Abby

Hairpiece Is Confusing

By ABIGAIL V. BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow late seventies now. About 12 years ago, this uncle asked me if I would be "executor" of his will. I told him I would and that was the end of the conversation. As such, I don't have the faintest idea what I am supposed to do. Should I write and ask him?

I don't want him to get the idea that I am waiting for him to die because I'm not, but shouldn't I know where to find his valuable papers and so on in case of his death? I didn't sign anything and am wondering if he has changed his mind and asked somebody else or what. How should I go about getting this information?

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, April 27, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be willing to bargain. New moon position emphasizes money, possessions, ability to get the most for your efforts. CANCER (June 21-July 20): New moon in your sign stresses appearance, charm, personality. You draw to you what you need. Make use of opportunity. Take initiative. Be independent in thought, action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Catch up on work which may have been neglected. You need time for quiet thoughts. Strengthen personal philosophy. Take time to crystallize your thoughts, ideas and goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Your circle of friends grows wide, perhaps due to fraternal organization. Welcome chance to express interests, views. Today accents fulfillment of hopes and wishes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Communicate with those in position to advance your aims, aspirations. Build on solid base at home. New moon position coincides with chance to make contact which elevates your position.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on travel, writing, publishing. Your ideals come closer to reality. Don't feel you must find perfection. Means work with material at hand. Relative is due to get in touch.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): May be necessary to organize new ways of saving. Mate or partner expresses willingness to co-operate. But it is your responsibility to spell out methods. Do so to best of your ability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take cue from mate or partner. Co-operate. Ask questions later.

Important to finish major task This is done by agreeing to joint effort. You may not be wise to go it alone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Something in the works today favors you where employment is concerned. Good day to harmonize relations with neighbors. Visiting relative of one close to you makes useful suggestion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Romance, ties of affection are accentuated by new moon position. Individual who appeared aloof now expresses affection. Be receptive. Avoid brooding. Be creative and enthusiastic.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Property you are concerned with could rise in value. This is due to news released today. Check various sources. Keep up with calls, correspondence. Be conservative in dealing with elders.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Short journey today could prove beneficial. Check details of offer made by one who telephones or writes. It's to your advantage to be analytical. Avoid superficial judgments.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you attract people who are idealistic. You must, on the other hand, strive for a more practical approach. New project looms, works favorably for you.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for TAURUS, GEMINI, CANCER. New moon position favors gardening, planting. Special word to CAPRICORN: pleasure comes from children. Tonight a romance could be rekindled.

comity (KOM-uh-tea)
courtesy; politeness
The good-looking dance instructor, a man known for his comity towards women, is reputed to have been married five times.
The two boys were advised by their father, a leading executive in a fashion shop, to remember that comity was a valuable asset in finding a good paying job.
The elderly widow, impressed by a young student's comity, agreed to loan him some money which he could use for his tuition.

The TV Dropouts Returning

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Mosel, a talented, sensitive writer who quit television several seasons back for the freer, greener field of Broadway and motion pictures, will be back on the tube on May 15 with an original drama, "Secrets," the last of this season's "CBS Playhouse" series.

By Junius

Trade Mark Reg.

Abraham Lincoln loved jokes on himself.

One day a congressman called at the White House and found the President was suffering from a cold. He expressed his sympathy, to which Lincoln replied, "President Lincoln—Well, (and he looked down at his feet regretfully for they were uncommonly large,) I expect colds. There's so much of me on the ground, you know."

At one time during the American Civil War, Gen. George B. McClellan, then in command of the Union forces, was conducting a waiting campaign; and so careful was he to avoid mistakes that little headway was evident. President Lincoln thereupon wrote him a letter:

"My dear McClellan: If you don't want to use the Army I should like to borrow it for a while. Yours respectfully, A. Lincoln."

Wolper Productions, which have had a hand in this season's National Geographic specials on CBS and ABC's "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" have formally protested the nominating procedure of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences which, somehow, overlooked the two series.

The Cousteau series, in particular, was an extraordinary oversight by ABC since the list of some 250 Emmy nominations included any number of documentary shows infinitely inferior to them.

John Carson will be off the "Tonight Show" for a vacation the week of May 13. His substitute will be former baseball player Joe Garagiola who has persuaded Jack Paar to return for one night.

The CBS experiment quite frankly was designed more for network prestige than for Nielsen points. And the series must be counted as an enormous success. It has already picked up a Peabody award and has been nominated for Emmys—and the three dramas shown have produced Nielsen numbers much larger than anyone dared hope for.

The TV Dropouts Returning

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Mosel, a talented, sensitive writer who quit television several seasons back for the freer, greener fields of Broadway and motion pictures, will be back on the tube on May 15 with an original drama, "Secrets," the last of this season's "CBS Playhouse" series.

Drama With a Theme
"I had something to say, something I thought was important, about privacy and the rights of peoples lives that they do not reveal to anyone else," Mosel said. "I think it makes an interesting play. And I also think that it is a drama with a theme that is adult enough that it would never have been produced on television 10 years ago."

Mosel, along with Reginald Rose and Loring Mandel, are among the eminent TV dropouts who have recently been lured back to the medium by "CBS Playhouse" which not only gives its writers freedom to express themselves but also pays extra large prices for scripts.

The CBS experiment quite frankly was designed more for network prestige than for Nielsen points. And the series must be counted as an enormous success. It has already picked up a Peabody award and has been nominated for Emmys—and the three dramas shown have produced Nielsen numbers much larger than anyone dared hope for.

A TV Protest
Wolper Productions, which have had a hand in this season's National Geographic specials on CBS and ABC's "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" have formally protested the nominating procedure of the or to them.

The Travia Choice: Success, Struggle

BY BRUCE DETLEFSEN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Anthony J. Travia considers his appointment to a federal judgeship a success story, but for his fellow Democrats it may preface a hard struggle over who will be the Assembly speaker's successor.

Travia and Orrin G. Judd, both of Brooklyn, were nominated by President Johnson Thursday to serve as judges of the U.S. District Court in Brooklyn.

Not Stepping Down Now
Travia said he would not step down as speaker, however, until the end of the 1968 legislative session, even if the U.S. Senate confirms the appointment.

before the state legislature adjourns.

Thus, it remains to be seen whether the 57-year-old speaker will be able to retain his tight rein on the Assembly's Democratic majority.

Beyond that, there is the question of whether Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, who vied with Travia for the speakership in 1965, will succeed him.

Steingut faces a challenge from Majority Leader Moses Weinstein, the Queens County Democratic leader who supported Travia in the seven-week-long stalemate that year.

Steingut heads the powerful King's County Democratic organization. His father, the late Irwin Steingut, was speaker in 1935.

Election to Tell

A reporter asked Travia at his Brooklyn home Thursday who he believed would succeed him. "I don't know," he replied. "The election will really tell."

who the next speaker will be." Travia said he had learned of the appointment to the bench when he returned from a dental appointment.

"It's like a Horatio Alger story for me," he said.

If Travia appears to relish the power and prestige of the speaker's office, he has good reason.

He labored in the Assembly ranks from 1944 to 1958, when he became minority leader. In that role, he took hard political knocks from Republican leaders.

Since 1965, however, his will on virtually all legislation has prevailed in the Assembly—and often on the legislature as a whole.

He has won praise from Republican Gov. Rockefeller who has said of Travia: "Tony's tough, but he is a man of his word."

Two Upstaters Killed in Viet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two more servicemen from upstate New York, one of them serving his second tour of duty, have been killed in combat in South Vietnam.

Army S. Sgt. Clark Barlow of Glens Falls died when the truck in which he was riding struck a land mine, the Defense Department told his parents Thursday.

Barlow had served a previous tour of duty in Vietnam. He was the son of Mrs. Edith Wylie of Glens Falls and Albert Barlow of West Glens Falls.

The department also reported the death of Army Pfc. Terry M. Mott of Horseheads, near Elmira, husband of Louise H. Mott.

Politicking Still On LBJ's Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson says he'll join in the politicking this year even if he won't be running for re-election.

His March 31 announcement removing himself from consideration for another term, he told an audience of Democrats Thursday, "does not mean that I am going to be an uninterested or passive bystander."

Then what did it mean?

No Specifics

Johnson gave no specifics and left unanswered such questions as whether he might get into the political act before his party chooses a presidential candidate.

But he couldn't be uninterested when the record "that you and I have helped to make is going to put before the country," he said.

In his March 31 address to the nation Johnson almost offhandedly commented that he wouldn't accept renomination, much less seek it, because "I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office—the presidency of your country."

His remarks Thursday to the Burro Club, a group of assistants to Democratic members of Congress, seemed to indicate Johnson will not be a total abstainer from the campaign.

On JFK, LBJ Record: Hubert

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told a Democratic gathering Thursday in Jackson, Tenn., he will carry the record of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations to the people.

"whatever may be my role," Humphrey will hold a news conference Saturday at which he is expected to announce he will seek the presidential nomination, taking on the two contenders already in the race, Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

Kennedy, who is punctuating his campaign for the May 7 Indiana primary with major policy speeches, proposed in Indianapolis Thursday a broad health care program to "make medical care available to all."

Also crisscrossing Indiana in pursuit of votes was McCarthy, who termed the presidential election this year the most critical since 1932.

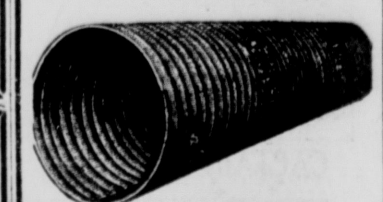

The pivotal issues, he said, are foreign policy, especially as regards the Vietnam war, deciding which problems at home and abroad rate attention first and "a kind of testing of American democracy."

A prediction that the contest for the Republican nomination will soon pick up interest came from Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky. Morton said he is confident New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will be in the running within three to four weeks. At the moment the only GOP contender, said private enterprise is the key to solving racial problems in the cities.

Rather than "another round of unachievable promises of unavailable funds," he said in a radio address from New York, the nation needs "to get the people of the ghetto into private enterprise—as workers, as managers, as owners."
